Korean Guards Murder 32 Of U.S. Captives

Another Atrocity Is Perpetrated By North Korean Forces

By FRANK EMERY
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

WITH U. S. FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION ON THE NAKTONG FRONT, Aug. 17. —Thirty-two American captives, with their hands tied behind their backs, were murdered Thursday by North Korean guards.

This new atrocity in the Korean war was related by five Americans who came back from "a gully of death" by accident.

The American prisoners of war were mowed down by their North Korean guards who sprayed them with a Russian-made "burp gun" and automatic pistols.

Hard-pressed by American patrols seeking to rescue the captured Americans, the enemy guards herded the prisoners into a gully.

Enemy Guards Open Fire

There they were ordered to huddle together. Then the enemy guards opened fire.

The names of three of the Americans who came back from the "gully of death" cannot be revealed because they were wounded.

The other two who escaped murder are Corp. James Rudd of Salyersville, Ky., and Corp. Robert Day, Jr., of El Paso, Tex.

Three North Koreans were captured this afternoon. And the five Americans positively identified them as their guards.

One was a lieutenant. The five Americans identified him as the officer who gave the execution firing order in the gully.

Eighth Army Field Headquarters said that a war crimes trial may be held in the field immediately.

Dr. Womer Will Fly To Sweden

Dr. W. A. Womer, superintendent of city health department, will fly from New York, August 19, to attend the International Conference on Alcohol, at Stockholm, Sweden.

The conferees will study the effects of alcohol on motor vehicle drivers.

After the conference Dr. Womer will visit various medical institutions in Europe. He will be accompanied by his two daughters. At present he is visiting in Hartford, Connecticut.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Among those who were present at yesterday's Old Timers' Day reunion, and who recalled the first reunion was Clyde Wick, retired street car motorman. Mr. Wick hauled the first Old Timers' Day crowd to Cascade Park.

From the numbers of groups of young pheasants noted by motorists along county roads this summer, there seems to be a larger number of these birds than usual in the area this year.

There is a certain amount of confusion for many motorists driving the highways in this area because of the inclination of persons in other cars to stick their hand or arm out of the windows while riding. Usually a motorist looks for a signal that the other driver is going to make a turn or plans some other traffic change, when an arm is seen protruding from the window of a car. But is a lot of cases it develops that it is merely someone aimlessly sticking an arm out the window. Arms and hands should be kept inside the cars unless signals to other drivers are being made.

Oldest man and oldest woman attending Old Timers Reunion at Cascade Park on Wednesday were Mrs. Debbie Russell, 94, of 729 Chestnut street, and I. B. Griffith, 94, 526 West Washington street, both shown above.

Memories of Old Timers' Day will linger long in the minds of a large number of the district's oldsters, who gathered Wednesday afternoon in the old pavilion at Cascade Park, to renew old acquaintances and take part in the program of the afternoon.

It was a far cry from the record crowds which jammed Cascade Park in the palmy days shortly after the turn of the century, when the event was first started, but the dance pavilion was filled to overflowing with those who came yesterday to honor the memory of the pioneers who founded Lawrence County and New Castle, and their descendants.

Real Oldsters Attend

They came from far and near. California sent its quota, while Florida also was represented, with many intervening points. Among those who came here from St. Petersburg, Fla., where he now resides was former county commissioner Francis M. Davis, who operated the Wampum Hardware Co., at Wampum for a number of years. Mr. Davis will be 94 years of age in two months and came within a few months of being the oldest Old Timer present. He was shaded by a few months, however, by I. Bevan Griffith, of 526 West Washington street, who has already turned the 94th milestone.

Mrs. Debbie Russell, of 729 Chestnut street, who is 94 years and six months of age, was the oldest person present. Mrs. Russell is still active and does her own housework.

Among Oldsters

Other real oldsters included "Uncle John" Haley, now 92 years of age, retired druggist; J. Homer McConnell, also of New Castle, 92; and Mrs. Margaret Velker, of

Reject Federal Subsidies For School Cafeteria Food

Federal subsidies for food in the New Castle public school cafeterias are out. The board of school directors does not want the nine cents per plate subsidy for the so-called plate lunches, neither does it want any of the surplus foods that the government gives away.

The action came after the report of Director Mrs. Elizabeth A. Kleckner, chairman of the cafeteria committee:

Couldn't Eat Them

"I have made a rather lengthy study of our school cafeterias," said Mrs. Kleckner. "I observed their operation, ate in them, and studied every phase of them."

"After my study I am convinced of one thing, I don't blame the teachers of our system for not eating those plate lunches. I couldn't eat them myself.

"They are not balanced, and as a result a lot of food is wasted.

It was the worst storm in many years in that area, according to reports.

New Social Security Bill Near Approval

Old Age And Relief Benefits Boost Planned

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(INS)—The Senate is to complete action today and send to the White House far-reaching legislation broadening and liberalizing the government's Social Security program.

The bill will boost old age and relief benefits, increase payroll taxes to pay for them and extend coverage to an additional 10 million workers including the self-employed, domestic servants and regularly employed farm workers.

The bill is regarded as the most important "Fair Deal" measure to be enacted by the 81st Congress, despite the fact it contains a restrictive amendment vigorously opposed by President Truman.

Approved By House

The amendment sponsored by Sen. Knowland (R) Calif., was approved by the House yesterday when it passed the bill 374 to 1. An administration move to eliminate the Knowland amendment was blocked by a vote of 188 to 185.

The Senate approved the amendment by a 45 to 37 vote earlier this year and no controversy is anticipated on it today.

It would in effect permit the WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(INS)—Legislation restoring twice-a-day home mail deliveries moved nearer passage today in Congress, but appeared headed for a presidential veto.

Supporters were spurred on by a favorable House vote of 264 to 108 and planned to press for early Senate action.

Chairman Johnston (D) S. C., of the Senate Postoffice and Civil Service Committee said he will seek a Senate vote as soon as possible.

Launch Drive For U.M.T. Law

Administration To Seek Action

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(INS)—The administration launched a full-scale drive in Congress today for immediate enactment of a universal military training law, to take effect at the discretion of the President.

Senate and House armed services leaders indicated they will seek prompt action on the new proposed measure, submitted with the approval of the President late yesterday by Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

The 60-page bill would make all men between the ages of 17 and 20 liable for one-year's military service, and would impose stiff penalties of up to five years in prison and up to $10,000 fine for attempts to evade it.

Urges Adoption

Johnson transmitted the proposal simultaneously to the chairmen of the House and Senate Armed Services committees, with a letter urging its adoption.

Johnson wrote that: "The recent events in Korea have only served to emphasize the fact that universal training is an essential element of an integrated and balanced system of national security.

"There is no long-range alternative to large standing forces except universal training."

Malik Asks For Private Conference

Private Meeting Of U.N. Security Council At 3 P.M.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 17—Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik today summoned a private meeting of the U. N. Security Council for an undisclosed reason.

The Russian president of the council asked the other 10 members to meet him privately at Lake Success one hour before the regular 3 p.m. (EDT) session on Korea begins. All agreed to be present.

A week ago, the nine western members of the council tried to persuade Malik to drop his blockade on discussion of the Korean war by asking him to a private meeting.

Blind Closed Doors

In one hour of intensive talk between closed doors, Malik declined to agree.

Last week U. S. Chief Delegate Warren Austin called for—and got—a three-day adjournment of the council to give Malik time to confer with the Kremlin, and Premier Stalin in particular, on a possible change of Russian policy.

Malik, however, returned to the council without meeting Austin's request. He resumed his obstructionist tactics and bitter propaganda attack on the U. S. and Britain.

It is probable that Malik has now received specific answers from the

U.S. Marines Gain In Drive Against Another Sector

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 18—(Friday)—A new offensive by four tank-led Communist divisions smashed Thursday night within 15 miles north of Taegu and the rumble of artillery was clearly audible in the threatened South Korean emergency capital.

To the south of Taegu, U. S. Marines gained the peak of a vital hill in a powerful American drive to erase a Red bulge across the Naktong river.

20,000 Pour Over River

The Communist offensive was launched below Kunwi and at least 20,000 of the estimated 40,000 enemy troops in the drive poured across the Naktong in the opening phase. They burst through South Korean lines for gains up to 1,200 yards.

The North Koreans were reported to be eight miles east of the Naktong at some points and to have crossed the main Kunwi-Taegu highway above the South Korean First Division's front line.

American and South Korean reinforcements were being rushed to the aid of the First Division, which has been fighting continuously for 14 days. Even policemen in villages were being recruited and young volunteers accepted as ammunition carriers.

The Red drive was described by U. S. Army officers as posing the "most serious" threat to United Nations forces in Korea.

Over Shallow River Bed

The Red horde swept across the Naktong where the river dwindles to sandbeds and shallows over which the enemy built a causeway of sandbags and stones strong enough to bear tanks.

Eight of twelve enemy tanks had been moved across Thursday night and more crossings were anticipated.

Brig. Gen. Paik Sun Yup, 30-year-old commander of the South Korean First Division, said:

"I fear the estimate that 20,000 Reds are across the Naktong and attacking us in this sector is a very conservative one."

There was no midnight communique from General Douglas MacArthur concering the serious new Communist assault.

South of Taegu, the marines fought their way up to the top of the 1,000-foot-high Obongi ridge Thursday evening after a day long struggle described by veteran leathernecks as comparing with

The bolt struck during the height of an electric storm which swept that area at 3:30 o'clock, Wednesday.

Embargo On Russian Goods By Ship Line

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(INS)—The United States Lines became the first major steamship company today to announce an embargo on the handling of goods to or from Soviet Russia.

An official of the line made the announcement following refusal of Longshoremen to unload a $350,000 cargo of Russian crab meat from the U. S. lines' ship, American manufacturer, at Boston.

The Cunard Line already has announced it is returning its load of crab meat to England, and the U. S. Lines is expected to do the same with the consignment on the American manufacturer.

A U. S. Lines' announcement said:

"The United States Lines knowingly will not handle henceforth any cargo out of or to Soviet Russia, directly or indirectly."

Barn Burns In Hickory Twp.

Lightning was blamed for the fire which destroyed the barn on the farm of John Cooper, Hickory township, during Wednesday's storm.

Fire broke out at 3 o'clock and quickly enveloped the entire barn. Hickory firemen were able to keep the flame from spreading to the surrounding buildings and thus saved them.

However, the barn which was filled with hay and grain was a total loss. No machinery or live stock was in the barn at the time of the fire.

No estimates are available at the present time as to the total amount of the damages, but the building was partially covered with insurance.

U.N. Will Get Korean Report Of MacArthur

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 17.—U. S. Chief Delegate Warren R. Austin will present to security council President Jacob Malik today the second official report on the Korean situation from Gen. Douglass MacArthur, commander of the United Nations forces.

The American diplomat is prepared to seize the floor at the 3 p. m. security council meeting immediately and read the report if Malik shows any signs of hesitation.

Reports Requested

Since the security council requested periodic reports on the Korean fighting in the intervention and sanctions resolution of June 25, any attempts by Malik to block the presentation of the MacArthur report is certain to draw instant censure and overruling by a substantial council majority.

Western members are coming to this afternoon's meeting fully aware that Malik also may have fresh parliamentary maneuvers up his sleeve to further delay a vote on an American resolution condemning the North Korean aggression and calling on all U. N. governments to help force the invader to his knees. He has been stalling since Aug. 1.

The second MacArthur report being handed to the council this afternoon limits itself to battlefield developments up to Aug. 1.

India Defers Move

Meanwhile, India has decided to defer presentation of this proposal for a "Little Six" Committee of the security council to draft a peace formula for Korea.

The Indian decision, revealed by an Indian spokesman, cleared the way for consideration by the council this afternoon of Gen. MacArthur's second report to U.N. on the progress of the Korean war. The report will be handed to Soviet Chairman Jacob Malik by Warren R. Austin, Chief U. S. Delegate to the Council.

induction address and several other three minute talks will be made. The Legion Band will also play during the program.

Open House

Following the induction ceremonies an Open House will be held to which the public is invited to attend, and see the armory. The induction ceremony is open to the public, also. Doughnuts and soft drinks will be furnished.

Recruiting is going on every day in the Service Center on East street. Officers and enlisted men are present every night from six to ten while attendants are on duty during the day.

"Be a Buddy with your Buddy" is the slogan for the recruiting campaign, emphasizing the idea that enlistment in the 229th Field Artillery means service with friends from the home county.

REJECT FEDERAL SUBSIDIES FOR SCHOOL CAFETERIA FOOD

Where there are potatoes and beans on the menu some of the children would eat one or the other and the rest would be thrown away.

"I am against subsidies from the government. I believe we should refuse them."

"What about giving apples to the children" we asked.

"We have no right to feed other peoples' children apples or anything else in school" said Mrs. Kleckner. "A lot of mothers complain that after eating in school the youngsters have no appetite for hot meals at home.

"I move that we discontinue the plate lunch subsidy and also discontinue taking surplus foods."

She's A Democrat

One of the board jestingly remarked to Mrs. Kleckner, "why you're a Democrat. I thought Democrats were in favor of getting things from the government."

"I am a registered Democrat" said Mrs. Kleckner, "but on this school board I am non-partisan, trying to do the best job I can. I still tell you I'm against government subsidies.

Asked if she opposed the subsidy for milk for elementary school students Mrs. Kleckner said, "yes I am, but it seems that if I oppose this I am charged with taking the milk out of baby's mouths. Such a position is ridiculous of course but for one year I am willing to go along with the milk program."

Director Alec Samuels, (Republican) said he thought as long as the government was putting out aid for school lunches the board should accept it.

On the vote the board voted seven in favor of Mrs. Kleckner's motion to refuse subsidies, Joseph R. Hensley voted "No" and Samuels refused to vote.

states to without unemployment compensation from striking workers without interference from the Federal government. Under present law, the Federal security administrator can deny fund to the states if they fail to "meet Federal standards."

Knowland would require them to continue to supply funds until the matter is settled in the State courts.

An administration supporter, Rep. Dingell (D) Mich., announced he is introducing separate legislation to repeal the Knowland rider.

Increased Benefits

The increased benefits under the new bill will begin in September and the additional 10 million workers will become eligible for pensions and other benefits beginning January 1.

The legislation will approximately double benefits for persons retiring at age 65 in the future and increase payments to those now eligible by approximately 77.5 per cent.

Maximum benefits a family can receive will be hiked from $85 to $150 a month and other payments will be boosted commensurately.

The increased payroll deductions to meet the cost of the program will enable the government to collect six billion dollars a year by 1970 compared with 2.5 billions this year.

The first $3,600 of a workers annual income will be taxable under the new law. Under present law, the first $3,000 is subject to the withholdindg tax.

Employers and workers will continue to pay the Social Security tax on a 50-50 basis with the scale for each increasing as follows:

Two per cent in 1954; 2.5 per cent in 1960; 3 per cent in 1965 and 3.25 per cent in 1970.

TRUMAN VETO LIKELY ON MAIL DELIVERY MOVE

similar to that voted by the House. It directs Postmaster General Donaldson to rescind his April 17 order limiting mail deliveries in residential areas to one daily. The order became effective July 1.

Donaldson objected that it would cost 70 million dollars a year to restore the curtailed deliveries and eliminate other postal economies which went into effect at the same time. His supporters pointed also to a 551 million dollar postal deficit in the 1949 fiscal year.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Leeper Felger, who passed away one year ago today, August 17, 1949.

Many a lonely heartache,
Often a silent tear;
But always a beautiful memory
Of our mom, we loved so dear.

Sadly missed by her children,
RICHARD and RONALD.

The fitted bodice featured long, tight sleeves, and the full nylon marquisette skirt ended in a long train. The skirt had two rows of Chantilly lace encircling the waist and forming an apron-effect in front. Her illusion fingertip veil fell from a Dutch cap of satin and Chantilly lace with pearl inserts. The bride carried a basket bouquet of two orchids, wiht snapdragons and white pompons with streamers.

Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Victoria Ann Crudell, who was the attractive maid of honor, wearing a turquoise nylon marquisette gown with cape sleeves, and a fitted Chantilly lace over nylon marquisette bodice falling into a full skirt. JUMPING THE COUNTRY

It is said that federal customs inspectors call the Polish American liner "Batory" the "Commie Ferry." The "Batory" last hit large size headlines some months ago when her skipper reported in by radio that he had a stowaway aboard. It turned out to be Berhart Eisler who had been at large under considerable bail. Eisler is very active in East Germany and the bailor is still holding the sack.

Anyhow, the "Batory" is a well watched ship. Under President Truman's new rule about keeping an eye out for possible "Trojan horse" ships, she is stopped and held in quarantine in New York harbor for a lengthy period now as a matter of course. The last time in she was inspected and passed. But her outbound trip was a different matter.

Several days ago the Batory's skipper got on the radio again. He said he had two stowaways. One came aboard, as stowaways traditionally do, while the ship was at her dock. But the other one came aboard under circumstances that make better reading than some of the cloak-and-dagger pocket editions.

It seems this man rented a small float plane, asked for a life preserver, and vanished over the horizon. As the aBtory steamed along outbound, lo and behold, a small plane landed alongside. They got the pilot aboard and, of course, asked his name. First he said he was a Mexican. Later he gave another name and said he was an American.

The ultimate disposition of the pair of stowaway cases is somewhat cloudy. No one seems to be sure whether or not they are Reds desperately seeking a haven behind the Iron Curtain. But the fact remains they are jumping the country under suspicious circumstances. They were taken off the ship in Britain Wednesday and are being held for return to U. S.

Perhaps the State department's recent order voiding the passport of Paul Robeson has touched off a migration from west to east. Wouldn't it be nice if the U. S. could get rid of pests that easily?

FEEDING THE WORLD

Every people in the world, including the presumably well fed Americans, would change their diet if the world food goals of the United Nations food and agriculture organizations were realized. The experts on the organization staff are not concerned about how much Americans eat, but about what we eat. Their charts say that the average calory intake for Americans is satisfactory, but our diet contains too much sugar and fats, not enough fruit, vegetables, meat, fish, eggs and milk.

The United Nations study finds a similar situation—enough calories but the wrong assortment of foods — in Oceania, three nations of South America, Scandinavia, the British Isles and surprisingly Russia and all of Europe except the southern segments of the continent. In all of the rest of the world the average daily food intake is less than the experts figure it should be, and nowhere is there a diet which is regarded as satisfactory. In almost all cases the diet is said to have enough or too much of carbohydrate foods, not enough of protein foods, which are generally more expensive.

Proposals to deal with the problem are as yet vague and sketchy, but one re-assuring point has emerged. The food and agriculture organization experts do not believe that the solution is to take food from those who have it and give it to those who lack it. They see the problem as the production of more food, and think the total world output can be doubled. The next problem would be to distribute the food. If that could be done on a paying basis, the United States might happily find itself relieved of its troublesome food surplus problems.

SEOUL CITY SUE

The most remarkable thing about this war in Korea—from strictly a GI point of view—is its similarity to the last fracas. Army veterans of the campaigns in the Ruhr and in Bavaria make use of the same house to house and peak to peak fighting techniques respectively.

Pictures of marine patrols could be duplicates of old file prints of Pelelieu and Saipan. The GI runs out of ammunition, never gets enough to eat, sleeps where he stops, yells for the medics, and grouses as he did, or as his older brother did, six or seven years ago.

The one thing the GI's had lacked was a Korean counterpart of an Axis Sally or a Tokyo Rose. Up until several days ago, that is. It must have been like old times to members of the MP company who picked up the first broadcast from north of the border to hear a sultry-voiced gal urging them to go back to their corner ice cream stores. They said she spoke with a definite accent and some of the stuff she put out was pretty crude.

Generally speaking, this slick-tongued Sue will do little harm to morale. The only significance is that a new personality now joins the ranks of real and imaginary warborn characters.

Two kittens, hitch-hiked from Greencastle, Ind., to Chicago on the landing gear of a plane. They landed, it seems, with all nine lives intact.

South Koreans must be a mite puzzled by these goings on. At home we're trying to get them to make a stand and in the UN we're trying to get them seated.

Lt. Gen. Vassili Stalin (that's Moscow Joe's boy) now claims that Russians invented the original airplane, the multi-motored plane, the autogyro, helicopter, rocket-propelled plane, hydroplane, parachute and the all-metal dirigible. Come, come, Vassili—how about the air, itself?

Washington Calling

(By MARQUIS CHILDS)

India Is Dramatic Case In Point

WASHINGTON—If there is one lesson that we in this country find it harder to learn than any other, it is that the struggle with Communism cannot be won without winning and holding friends on our side. The immediate and dramatic case in point at this moment is India.

Prime Minister Nenru of India led his government in support of the United Nations action in South Korea. Without that support the position of the United States would be very much more difficult. In Asia it might well be impossible.

For me, and I think for many people in Washington, in Lake Success and New Delhi, the stand that India has taken is pointed up by a deep sense of personal loss in the death of Colonel Unni Nayar, who had been sent from the Indian Embassy in Washington to Korea as an observer for the United Nations. While driving a jeep toward the front line in company with two British newspaper correspondents and a South Korean officer, Colonel Nayar ran over a land mine and all in the jeep were killed.

Citizen of World

Unni Nayar was a good citizen of his own country, but he was also a citizen of the world. As a soldier on the side of the Allies in World War II, Nayar endured many hardships and hazards with courage and resolution. A month ago when he was asked to go to Korea as an observer, he willingly accepted the assignment.

Reports from there tell of how he shuttled back and forth between United Nationas headquarters and the fighting front. And these reports stressed the qualities which those of us who came to know him here quickly recognized—his goodness, his kindness, his desire to bring the United States and India closer together in understanding and friendship.

These are the qualities urgently needed in the relationship between the two countries today. There is evidence of a dangerous drift toward suspicion and hostility which must be countered.

The United States could not accept Nehru's proposal to seat the Chinese Communists in the U.N. Security Council. As secretary of State Dean Acheson made clear, this would be yielding to the Communist blackmail of force. It would be an invitation to the same kind of blackmail everywhere.

Shut the Door?

But there have been many in both countries who felt that Acheson shut the door on further peace negotiations as proposed by Nehru with unnecessary haste and firmness. For one thing, this gave Soviet Russia a fine propaganda opening. Russian Delegate Jacob Malik has been using it at Lake Success to try to prove that the United States is not interested in peace while Stalin welcomed the opportunity to settle the Korean dispute. Here is still another example of the way in which Russia has grabbed the peace issue.

The able correspondent of the New York Times in India, Robert Trumbull, reports that anti-American feeling has never been so widespread as it is now. Partly, as Trumbull explains it in a dispatch from New Delhi, this is a reaction to reports from the Korean war that tell of the bombings and destruction of town after town as the United States Air Force, aided by British and Australian planes, carries out its mission of destroying the war-making potential of the North Koreans.

Reality of War

This is an emotional and, in a sense, an irrational reaction since the bombing is merely one of the realities of modern warfare. And India has underwritten the effort to put down the Communist invasion of the Republic of South Korea.

But it is clear that behind this reaction is a deep and instinctive feeling that we in the West will ignore at our peril, that we are a small island of whites in a world of color. It is a feeling centering on the fact that Americans and Europeans, who have been traditionally the powers exerting colonial superiority, are now with superior weapons killing Asians. It is a feeling that, in the Western attitude, Asians are considered expendable.

This points up the monstrous folly of any contemplated or proposed use of the atomic bomb in the Korean war. Fortunately responsible officials, both military and civilian, have never at any time considered its use in a limited war. Asians will never forget Hiroshima and Nagasaki where the bomb was used for the first and only times against civilians in two Asian cities.

We have friends in India like Colonel Nayar who want to build on the understanding that already exists. America must do everything possible to further that understanding and to avoid unnecessarily slamming any doors that can be left even a little way open.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

IF CHILD FEELS HE'S UNPOPULAR

Suppose you had three children. Suppose the eldest, nine years old and in the fifth grade felt that all the boys in his classroom are against him and that his teacher is always picking on him.

"Dear Dr. Myers:

"My son is nine years old and in the fifth grade. It seems he feels that all the boys in his class are against him and that his teacher picks on him. I have asked the teacher if it were possible to put him back, for I believe he is too young for his grade (it was foolish on our part to start him to school at 5) but she tells me that he is doing well in his class work. I have had him to the doctor and he said the boy must find himself and in the meantime to give him plenty of affection, rest, proper diet, etc. Well, he has had all these since he was a baby. He has been sickly, is very easily hurt, cries at the drop of a hat, demands to be heard at home and if not heard cries and generally has me upset. We have two other children (younger) that are just as friendly, pleasant and good natured as this boy is moody, surly and ill-tempered."

Usual Gestures

I wrote this mother: You may have attempted to be affectionate with this lad and even may have gone through the usual gestures of showing him affection. The real question is: Do you feel genuinely affectionate toward him and he toward you? He knows May not his ways so annoy you as to make him feel that he is less attractive to you than the other children are? Of course, you can't just command yourself to feel truly tender toward him, though you may cultivate the stage on which to get some such feelings.

He needs to learn skills at making things with his hands and playing well at games which others of his age will enjoy so he can win more friends. Study him artistically, in growing more attractive to his playmates. Then he will have more friends at school. Help him practice at saying something good about a playmate. Perhaps you could set the example by stating some true good things about him and other persons. Wonderful when he begins to report pleasant things about his schoolmates and teacher. Try to help him see that we can't make other persons like us by thinking they should or by complaining when they don't; but that we have to work on ourselves so others will like us without trying to do so, just because they can't help it. Though you will listen some to his constant self-pity, it may be well to show him you can get tired of hearing such.

Dad might help him by going places with him and doing things with him, sometimes with other boys. Then Dad should play up the best in this lad and both you parents should try to make him feel more worthwhile in the family circle. Also your friends might help you build up real self-regard in this lad and an urge to change himself so as to win more friends.

"IF I WERE RICH"

"If I were rich!" Why waste the time
With, if a dollar were the dime
I would do this? Ere day is through
Instead do what the dime can do.

"If I were rich!" The phrase is vain.
The needs we'd serve unserved remain.
But there's that lesser need nearby
Which, if we would, we could supply.

"If I were rich!" That means that we
With much to spare would generous be.
The widow's mite was truly great
Because for more she didn't wait.

She named no contribution which
She'd surely make if she were rich.
She proved her love for service good
By gladly doing all she could.

The rain held off just long enough . . . for the peoples of New Castle, Lawrence County and many other parts of these United States and one from England to gather at Cascade Park . . . to enjoy visiting at the Old Timer's Day party . . . the largest crowd that has gathered for many a year . . . they actually filled the Rainbow Gardens . . . and the grand march found over two hundred wonderful people marching around . . . under the direction of Frank Robinson and his committee. . . . It always makes me stand in awe when this portion of the program goes on . . . wondering of course if Frank will be able to finish the grand march without getting the people all mixed up.

Judge John G. Lamoree welcomed the group to New Castle and Lawrence County . . . and Rev. A. C. Howe placed the blessing on the crowd . . . Without further ado the activities started . . . in other columns of this newspaper you will find details of the day with names of visitors and prize winners.

Credit for the success of this year's (and many past) Old Timer's Day goes to Paul Butz and his committee . . . they worked like trogans getting everything in readiness . . . collecting the money that is necessary to finance the event . . . and incidentally the money raising was directed by Ralph Shiner but he informed me privately that he didn't feel that some of the local establishments knew the true meaning of the cause. IT'S LATER THAN YOU THINK

Sightseeing In Norway

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 17.—We cranked up the old Fjord this morning and started on a sightseeing tour of Oslo which, as all of you who got "A" in geography know, is the capital of Norway and simply crammed full of Norwegians. Of all the cities I have visited, this is far and away the best place to see Norwegians. They are everywhere.

Our first stop was the museum where the only three Viking ships in the world are on exhibit. Two of them are in an almost perfect state of preservation, which is remarkable in view of the fact that they sailed the seas as early as 800 A. D. Their preservation is due to their having been buried in the blue clay banks of the Oslo Fjord. This clay kept them almost as if they had been wrapped in Cellophane. Even the fruit that the Vikings had on board when the ships were buried (they were used as tombs) was recognizable when unearthed.

Like A Young Viking?

During my youth I had always pictured myself to myself as looking like a young Viking. Now, not having been covered with Oslo Fjord blue clay for the past 20 years, I picture myself to myself as looking like a middle-aged, or seasoned, Viking. So it was with more than ordinary interest that I examined these ships.

They are extremely graceful, and their elaborately carved bowsprits are proof that the Vikings had an eye for beauty. But how they made it over uncharted oceans is something else again. Thirty to forty oarsmen and a sail against all the sea had to offer! I am proud to fool myself into believing that the blood of Vikings flows through my veins, be it ever so sluggishly.

The Vikings must have known they were pretty glamorous boys, because records show that if their hair and beards were not blond enough to suit them they didn't hestitate to bleach them even whiter.

From the Viking museum we went to Vigeland Park, having decided to see everything starting with "V" first. As you probably don't know—I certainly didn't until I got here—art lovers have scrapped over the merits or demerits of this unique place for years. It is a large park given over to the works of one sculptor, Gustav Vigeland, who worked at the project for 40 years, right up to the time of his death a few years ago.

Hundreds Of Figures

There are hundreds of figures of men, women and children in bronze and granite, ranging in size from tiny to mammoth. There are fountains, a massive monolith, and a vast array of bronze and stone reptiles. Maybe Vigeland knew what he wanted to get across, but no one else knows for sure, because there are dozens of schools of thought on what he was up to.

Knowing that the art world won't have a moment's peace until I give my opinion of Vigeland Park, here it is: Vigeland wanted to establish an all-time record for using up the stuff that scultors work with. I have yet to see one thing by Michelangelo that didn't have more grace and beauty than the combined works of Vigeland.

There! Now I guess the art world can go about its business again.

See Polar Ship

Finished with the "V,s" we started work on the "F,s" visiting The Fram House and the Folk Museum. What you see in The Fram House, rightly enough, is the Fram, the polar ship of Nansen Sverdrup and Amundsen. The Fram, good as new despite her three gruelling trips through the ice packs, was pulled ashore and the house built around her. The Fram is a landbound museum. Aboard her one may see most of the equipment used by Nansen, Sverdrup and Amundsen, three of the world's greatest explorers.

At the Folk Museum one may see just how the Norwegians of other centuries lived. Their houses, barns, churches, etc., have been brought from all parts of the country and reassembled in a wooded park. The original furnishings are intact, right down to the ancient wooden irons with which the housewives somehow managed to press clothes, and the giant, hand-painted beer bowl which always occupied the place of honor in the center of the living room table.

This left us with only 24 more letters of the alphabet to go. Being the sort of folks who want their money's worth, we'll be up bright and early tomorrow to start working on "A", "B", "C", "D", etc.

One Man's Opinion

(By International News Service)

An economist has written a play in which wages are upped eight times but prices don't follow . . . This is the first time this economic theory has been put in three acts instead of three terms.

I don't know what kind of a run the play will have but the theory opened in Detroit in August 1945 and has been running continuously since.

Only thing is, it's going to take from now until the year 2050 for wages to go from $50 to $400 a week with no increase in prices . . Even in this play.

This is not nearly quick enough for the fellows who are running for relection this year.

But there is no reason they can't promise the miracle for almost immediate delivery . . . as in the past.

Shucks it's only 10 years or so ago that we were promised "the glorious world of tomorrow" and here it is already.

Folks Of Fame

Count Louis de Frontenac was a French-Canadian statesman, governor and lieutenant-general for the French king in Canada. He was born in 1620. He served in 1635 under the Prince of Orange in in Holland and fought in many engagements in the Low Countries and in Italy. He was appointed governor in Canada, arriving in Quebec September 12, 1672. He was recalled to France in 1682 because of disensions between him and the religious and civic authorities. He had maintained peace among the Iroquois, Huron and Ottawas, but trouble broke out by the actions of his successor. The king then sent him to Canada for the second time, restoring confidence to the colonies. In 1690 several New England ships appeared of Orleans and demanded the fort's surrender. He repulsed the enemy, and prepared to attack Boston, but his resources were inadequate. He died at the Chateau St. Louis, deeply mourned for his fearlessness, resourcefulness and decisiveness.

Fourth Time In Korea

American Forces Have Intervened Four Times In Far Eastern Nation Without Declaration Of War

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—The fighting in Korea represents the fourth time American forces have intervened in that Far Eastern nation with armed forces without a formal declaration of war. Prior interventions were in 1871, 1888 and 1894. They were small-scale and of short duration.

Nor does the action in Korea represent the first time the United States has participated in an international army while ostensibly at peace.

Curiously enough, American forces once fought shoulder-to-shoulder with Russian troops less than 700 miles from where GIs are now battling Russian-trained Communists.

This was in 1900-1901 during the Boxer rebellion in China when President William McKinley sent 5,000 troops to help relieve the siege of foreign quarters in Peking by Chinese rebels. The American troops were joined by Russians, British, French, German and Japanese armed forces.

The United States has participated in at least five international armies during peacetime. In addition to the Boxer rebellion, the United States acted in conjunction with the British in 1854 during a Chinese civil war, intervened in Uruguay with other powers in 1858, bombarded the Japanese in 1864 with British, French and Netherlands forces, and acted jointly with Germany and Great Britain in Samoa in 1888.

This is the first time, however, that an American commander, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, has headed an international army except in time of war.

According to one historian, American armed forces, largely Marines, have intervened in the affairs of other nations more than 180 times.

In the earlier, lusty days of the Republic, American armed forces didn't hesitate to intervene at the drop of a hat, sometimes without the prior authorization of the President, much less Congress.

AMERICAN ARMED FORCES first saw action in Korea in 1871 when a six-ship naval squadron was fired upon while investigating a Korean attack on a United States merchant vessel.

The squadron fired back, silencing two shore batteries, but withdrew when a warship struck a rock. Ten days later, the expendition returned. The Marines stormed the Korean forts and killed 250 Koreans. American losses were three killed and nine wounded.

In 1888, American forces sent to Seoul to protect American residents whose lives were endangered by a threatened outbreak. From 1894 to 1896, a Marine guard was kept at the American legation there to protect American lives and property during and following the Sino-Japanese war.

Intervention in foreign nations without a declaration of war or the consent of Congress has been a frequent occurrence in American history. Indicative of this is the impressive list of countries which American armed forces have entered.

They include: Dominican Republic, Egypt, Tripoli, Spanish Florida, Cuba, Greece, Falkland Islands, Sumatra, Argentina, Peru, Fiji Islands, Portuguese West Africa, Formosa, Mexico, Haiti, Chile, Brazil, Syria, Ethiopia, Morocco, Honduras, Turkey, Russia and Iceland.

THE MAJOR CONFLICTS in which the United States engaged without the formality of declaring war included the naval war with France in 1798, the attacks upon the Barbary pirates of Tripoli (1801-05) and Algiers (1815), the bombardment and capture of Vera Cruz, Mexico (April 21-Nov. 23, 1914), Gen. John J. Pershing's punitive expedition into Mexico against Pancho Villa in 1916, and a similar search for the Nicaraguan outlaw Sandino some years later.

Furthermore, 5,100 American troops occupied Russian territory around Archangel in 1918-1919 to protect the port and surrounding area from the Bolshevists. From August, 1918, to April 1, 1920, some 9,000 American troops helped protect Vladivostok, Siberia, and railways westward for hundreds of miles from the Bolshevists.

In 1941, while the United States was still officially at peace, President Roosevelt ordered Greenland and Iceland, then dependencies of German-occupied Denmark, "protected" by American troops to guard them against a possible Nazi seizure.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

How can you tell when you have reached middle age?

As good an answer as any was given the other day by Arthur Godfrey.

"You have reached middle age," he said, "when you think that in a couple of days you'll feel as good as you used to."

That's just about it.

The reason I am thinking about "middle age" right at this minute is that I have just taken the last out of a bottle of 100 vitamin tablets.

Shall I get another bottle?

Or shall I just let nature take its course and admit that pills, tablets, potions and imagination notwithstanding, I'll never be as good as I used to be?

Many a manufacturer of drugs, many a maker of cosmetics, many a proprietor of health resorts where they "rejuvenate" people, has become rich because his customers refuse to let middle age into their home and their hearts.

"I am young," they say to themselves, "in a few days I'll feel as good as I used to." Then they take another pill, put on another dab of rouge, take another bath of illusionary bubbles.

One of the things I shall never understand about human beings is why they proclaim to believe in God and His Wisdom, yet try their darndest to improve on His ways.

And I may certainly be counted among these human puzzles or I wouldn't be spending my money on "pep" medicines.

So now I am going to make a resolution:

I shall NOT buy another bottle of vitamins.

But don't you follow my advice. You just keep on taking yours.

I hate macaroni, YOU may love it. I used to like redheads (I married one), YOU may go (or have gone) for blondes.

The pills don't do ME any good—they may work wonders for YOU.

But just in case you don't believe in pills, yet hate middle and old age—what is so bad about it?

I had lunch yesterday with a fellow who used to be a firebrand of energy and ambition.

He reached the top rung of the ladder of success in his business—and was taken to the hospital on a stretcher.

For weeks he was at death's door, and every night when the lights in his sick-room were turned out—death visited him and the two of them had little preparatory chats.

Then my friend got well—and is a changed man.

He now admits that he is getting old. He suddenly has learned, to take it easy, to enjoy life and to recognize the unimportance of so many important problems. He has learned to be his age.

He now knows that not a single minute of a single day is OWNED by him, but that all time is a LOAN that has to be repaid the moment after it has been lived.

He knows that evening has come. He knows that after the hot, burning sun of the morning, the noon and the afternoon, come the cooling breeze, the peaceful moon, the silvery stars.

And he is not afraid of the night that will bring him rest.

He is happier today than he has ever been.

WHY IVY?

Ivy poison is a calamity. It is often due to carelessness or thoughtlessness.

Grandma gets absentminded thinking about the funeral. She pulls up an ivy plant without looking and to-morrow her eyes swell shut.

The family takes a trip to the woods. Dad clears a site for the table cloth. He grabs an ivy vine without thinking. Bingo! Mom has a big job for a week taking care of the worst case of ivy poison ever seen.

EASY DOES IT

What ails the fishing this summer? "Nothing," will declare numerous successful fishermen. However, just as many and possibly more will shake their heads in wonderment. I know of three parties who treked to Erie with a batch of the finest soft shelled crabs and returned virtually empty handed. On the other hand, J. C. (Joe) Williams stated only the other day that his three trips to the big lake netted fine catches. So there you are.

The results of those fishermen invading Canadian waters are quite similar. Some return with nothing but excuses, others with stories of prodigious catches. One party in particular including Clare Book and Jesse Kerr, returned from the Kawarthan region with a report of having hooked fifty lunge during their two week stay. Yes, that's right, fifty. Ordinarily, a muskellunge fisherman considers himself lucky if he scores a strike a day and two fish per week. Of the fifty fish landed only seven were kept.

Those anglers who have thus far failed to score complain bitterly of the weather; the cool nights and hot days coupled with a heavier than usual rainfall keeping the fish down and inactive. But, regardless of the weather fish must eat. So, the most feasible procedure is to locate them. Bass and other warm water fish such as perch, walleyes and others regularly circulate from one favorite spot to another in the course of their daily and nocturnal activities.

Under normal weather conditions and they, it may be added, include water level as well as temperature, the fish scarcely if ever deviate from their usual foraging routes. Confusion often arises from the fact that they may resort to any one of the several similar favorites spots which they are known to have. A successful fisherman is one who knows the location of such spots or employs a guide that does.

Normally, lake dwelling smallmouth bass are most often found off rocky points in from five to eight feet of water. In the early morning they may be closer to shore than later in the day. In the early evening they once again begin working shoreward seeking minnows, crayfish, frogs and other quarry. In some lakes clumps of lily pads or other aquatic vegetation are favored as much as rocky shoals. And, oh yes, don't pass up partly sunken logs and snags.

Owen Fox with a fifteen-pound northern pike and a five-pound bass.

Favorite surface or underwater plugs as well as natural baits may be successfully used in situations such as the foregoing. The important thing is to fish slowly, methodically and quietly and use every bait and lure at your disposal until the most effective one is found. A local angler who discovered the rendezvous of a five-pound largemouth bass in a pool under the railroad bridge passing over Linesville creek had unsuccessfully tried everything but worms. Indeed, he had given up and was making his way to another pool when he thought of the few night crawlers he had taken along. A big, saucy crawler did the trick.

In streams such as the Neshannock and Little Beaver, the slow observing fisherman usually picks up his share of fish. One such was seen just below the bridge at Eastbrook Station only last Monday. Since he was a flyrod enthusiast his lures consisted of artificials suitable to handle with such an outfit. The success he enjoyed was attributable to his slow and carefully studied tactics.

Accordingly, regardless of weather if the water is fishable and the fish are known to be there the careful angler can't help but get his share of the finnicky gamesters.

Many Matters Acted On At School Board Session

Contracts for coal were let by the New Castle school board Wednesday night.

A month ago when the coal bids were received, Director Joseph R. Hensley asked that an analysis of each brand of coal be presented so the board could know which was the best grade of coal for the various furnaces.

Prepare Anaylsis

This was done, and since the July meeting. Mr. Hensley had spent considerable time in an exhaustive study of the various analyses. These he prepared in a table for the board, showing the BTU, fusion point, volatiles, carbon, ash, sulphur and moisture of each grade of coal.

For nearly an hour Mr. Hensley explained to the board why he thought various coals were suited for the different furnaces in the system, some of them being underfeeds and some over-feeds.

Some of the board differed with him when he recommended a grade of local strip mine coal for the elementary school furnaces. This coal, he said, showed an analysis that was good, and the price was low. The board members said the experience with local strip coal had been bad and would not approve.

Four Sections

The board finally agreed to award the contract for coal for the elementary schools in one contract and the coal for senior, Franklin and Washington high schools in separate contracts.

For the elementary schools U. Z. Sweesy Co. was awarded the contract for 2-inch coal at $9.20 per ton.

For the three high schools each contract went to Maxwell & Gibson for nut coal at $8.60 per ton. Checks were returned to the unsuccessful bidders.

To Use Auditorium

The New Castle symphony orchestra was granted permission to use the auditorium of Benjamin Franklin junior high school for rehearsals.

Major Alfred Barnes asked for and received a military leave from his duties as a teacher of history in the senior high school. He commands the 229th Field Artillery battalion.

Robert L. Stewart was re-elected school policeman and attendance officer for the coming term.

A dental unit was authorized to be purchased from the Ransom and Randall company at a price of $300 and an engine to power it was ordered from the S. S. White company at a price of $261.

Fennel Service of Jackson, Mich., was awarded a contract to supply necessary magazines for the school system for the coming year at a price of $351.05.

The General Electric company was given the contract for a job lot of magnet wire at a bid of $320.98.

Cleveland News Co. was awarded the contract for library books at its bid of 35 per cent off list for text and reference books.

Westminster college has asked several of the New Castle principals to serve as instructors in evening classes at the college this winter. Superintendent Frank L. Burton asked if the board would approve such an arrangement. Approval was given.

A check for $3,600 was received from the state planning board, which is a part of the architect's fee for drawing plans for an addition to senior high school.

To Pay Paving Share

The board agreed to pay a share of the paving of Ryan avenue, the Rose Avenue school being located in a plot of ground between Rose and Ryan.

Dr. W. Fulton aJckson, chairman of the athletic committee, said he thought it would be impossible for the new instrumental music director, whoever he may be, to prepare the senior high school band for the first football game of the season on September 8. He suggested the American Legion championship band be invited to play the game, and this will be done.

Three coaching positions were declared vacant Wednesday night, the posts of football and basketball coach at Franklin junior high school and the post of assistant coach at George Washington junior high. The positions will be filled later.

Meanest Thief Robs Old Timer

For the most miserable thief we have ever heard of, we nominate the one who robbed Henry Moltz, of R. D. 1, New Wilmington, aged 89 years, of his pocketbook, while he was attending the Old Timers' reunion at Cascade Park Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Moltz reported that someone had stolen his pocketbook containing $13, during the excitement of the afternoon. He reported that he felt someone fumbling against him, but did not miss the pocketbook until later, when it was too late to identify the person.

No Settlement Signs In Pittsburgh Strike

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Efforts of mediators to break the strike front of six Pittsburgh district bus lines continued today to run into dead ends with no prospect of an early settlement.

Federal and State mediators pressed their series of negotiation meetings without finding a solution to the deadlocked wage increase dispute.

Meanwhile, some 500,000 district bus riders continued providing themselves with transportation as best they could.

The struck firms are Harmony Short Line, Oriole, Penn Transit, Brentwood, West Side and Debolt.

Ambassador O'Dwyer To Lead Life Of Reilly

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—Ambassador to Mexico William O'Dwyer should be able to lead the life of Reilly, really, when he gets to his new post.

New York's mayor, and formerly one of its finest, will face no opposition when his name goes before the Senate for confirmation.

But he will have to go through a little training when he comes to Washington for indoctrination around October 1.

Strictly Political

Diplomatic sources regarded his appointment as strictly political though arguing that it is one of the most apt of such nominations in recent history. His amiability quick wit and political background are regarded as effective values equally as great as diplomatic career background.

In his new post, O'Dwyer will head the fourth largest U. S. embassy and the largest of all in the western hemisphere. He will handle a staff of about 125 diplomats at the embassy and the consular offices, not counting clerks, typists and house maintenance people.

Only the embassies in Paris London and Rome, in that order are larger.

O'Dwyer will receive the maximum pay provided for ambassadors —$25,000 yearly. In addition he will get about $10,000 in allowances for entertainment and other incidentals.

Free Of Taxes

This income will be entirely free of taxes excepting those he may need to pay on personal property in New York. He could even send a mail order to Macy's and avoid the New York sales tax and any Mexican import duties.

On the entertainment side, he will be able to buy bonded rye and bourbon for about $16 a case Brandy, champagne, scotch and wines are equally cheap. Diplomats pay duty to no man.

Work should be easy. The high altitude—about 5,300 feet—causes doctors to discourage over exertion The Mexicans learned it long ago hence the siesta. Even if you can't sleep, there's no one to do business with between noon and 3:00 p.m

Moreover, the mayor will have an able and well trained staff headed by minister counsellor Guy W. Ray, a diplomat since 1918 and with long service in Mexico City as well as other Latin-American capitals.

O'Dwyer will have as first secretary Dorsey Gassaway Fisher, who will also act as his press officer Fisher served in Washington in that capacity as well as in London during most of the war.

The embassy is not as imposing as Gracie Mansion, O'Dwyer's official home as mayor. But the climate is better.

With his $15,000 pension from New York City, the retiring mayor will be considerably better off even though Mexico City is quite a distance from Broadway and 42nd street.

Late Blight Reported On Tomato Plants

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17—Some late blight has been reported on tomatoes in widely scattered areas of Pennsylvania and growers are urged to continue spraying at regular intervals to prevent spread, according to an announcement by the State Department of Agriculture.

Vegetable crops in the southeast, although in fair to good condition by the end of July, suffered from the effects of dry weather, a Federal-State survey for the latter part of July revealed. New seedings failed to germinate in the dry soils of some eastern localities. Rainfall in the southern half of the State averaged less than an inch for the two-week period and only a trace was recorded in the extreme southeast portion. For the State as a whole rainfall averaged less than a fifth below normal.

Vine growth of tomatoes has been exceptionally heavy and rapid but the harvest in most areas is from a week to two weeks later than usual. Late plantings in all sections made rapid growth and carry a good set of fruit. Harvest will likely be at peak during late August.

Gastritis or inflammation of the stomach frequently follow the over use of bromides.

Metal Plants Are Laden With Orders Since Korean War

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The magazine Iron Age reported that the first waves of hysterical buying following the outbreak of fighting in Korea have been followed by a flood of orders that have jammed metalworking plants of all types.

It explained that extended industrial forward buying is due to increased order backlogs of manufacturers and increased order backlogs of their supplies.

The publication said that since the Far East war began, the advance time on industrial purchasing has been stepped up 30 to 60 days. This was said to apply to nearly all types of industries and materials.

According to Iron Age, electric motors are being bought four to six months in advance of delivery, when formerly they were bought three months ahead; while steel bearings are being ordered through the first quarter of next year, when ordinarily they would have been ordered only through the fourth quarter of this year.

The publication reported that scrap prices have soared for the second consecutive week. The Iron Age steel scrap composite price advanced $1.08 a ton to $40.25 a gross ton, slightly below the high of the year.

In Behalf Of G.I. In Korea

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—(INS)—If I may have the floor for a few moments, I would like to rise and say a few words in behalf of the G. I. in Korea.

I have just finished reading another one of those stories to the effect that the American enlisted man doesn't have the slightest notion why or for what he is fighting below the 38th parallel.

"G. I.'s in Korea handicapped by unawareness of mission" reads the headline, two columns wide on the front page.

The story goes on to say that "the average G. I. seems not to know why he is fighting in Korea." And somehow or other, I seem to feel that this is where I came in.

The whole piece has the warmed-over look and feel of those powerful pieces written in the last war, i. e., World War II, by correspondents who felt the dumb American soldier didn't know why he was fighting in Africa, Sicily, Italy, France, Germany or the Pacific islands.

This fresh and glowing tribute to the dumb cluck qualities of the American soldier has me madder'n a hatter. But, alas, I find my rage aimed at two diametrically opposed targets.

Dander Is Up

My dander is up at the very idea that an American man of fighting age, that is, from 18 on up, must stand accused of being so precociously stupid that he doesn't know what he is fighting for today in Korea. Any American male of army age in Korea who doesn't know what he is fighting for is too dumb to be entrusted with a bazooka, much less a tank or an airplane.

My confrere in Korea describes fighting men there as "zealous, resourceful and hard", but it is the soldier of North Korea of whom he is speaking, not the G. I. Yet those three adjectives, "zealous, resourceful and hard", have in past generations been used over and over again to describe the American fighting man.

Somehow, I can't believe that the G. I. is ignorant of the reason he fights in Korea today. I rebel against such slander, such libel of the American fighting man. I do not believe these stories that paint the G. I. as a grumbling moron.

After all, how dumb can a guy get, even in 18 or 20 years? Anyone who has grown to fighting age in the United States in the last five to 10 years and doesn't realize what all the shooting's about in Korea is deaf, dumb and blind and not apt to pass the mental aptitude test for a buck private.

The newspapers, the radio, TV, and the movies, all the media of mass information to which American kids are addicted from birth, have spelled out the cause of the Korean war at the top of their respective lungs for years now, especially the years since 1945. If these media have sinned, it has not been the sin of omission.

The schism in world thought today, the struggle of freedom vs. slavery, of liberty vs. bondage, life-in-light vs. death-in-darkness, has been brought into every American home by these media. If there's a G. I. in Korea today who doesn't know what he's fighting for, send him home! He's too stupid to do any good. By his very stupidity, he may endanger his fighting comrades who know why they mann the bazookas and tanks south of the 38th parallel.

GRANDMA 32 YEARS OLD

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Mollie Divito recently became a grandmother—at the age of 32. Her daughter, Mrs. Rosemarie Campbell, 17, gave birth to a girl.

"I didn't want Rosemarie to be married so young, back in 1948, but now I'm happy about it," the girlish grandma said. "After all, I was married at 14."

They decided to name the youngest member of the family Joy.

While ulcer is not often a fatal condition, it usually affects men in their most productive years and causes loss of working time and wages.

Yanks May Live Up To War Song

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16—(INS)—The Army is going to try to live up to the war song which places the Yanks in Korea "Past the 38th Parallel."

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander in Korea, wrote to a Philadelphia song writer yesterday that the words were a little "inappropriate at this time," but that the Army was "striving to comply."

The letter was an acknowledgement to Dr. William B. Richter, composer-dentist, who forwarded his song to Gen. Walker.

Walker wrote that he would be listening for the song which bears the title: "We Yanks Will Give You Hell . . . Past the 38th Parallel."

Camp Atterbury Is Near City Of Indianapolis

When the 229th Field Artillery Battalion goes into camp at Camp Atterbury, Ind., the men of the units will find themselves in a typical midwestern community.

Camp Atterbury is located 15 miles south of Franklin, Ind., where is located Franklin College, a Baptist school. The camp is some twenty miles from Indianapolis, Ind.

Built In World II

Camp Atterbury was built in World War II, back in 1941. At that time the camp contained 3,000 military installations and many farms were converted for the purpose. The 30th, the 83rd and the 106th divisions were trained here.

By the end of August 3,000 will be working in the camp readying it for the 28th divsion, orders from the Pentagon being that the camp must be ready by September 1st.

Chamber of Commerce delegates from eight nearby communities are already mapping out plans for a wartime basis. Steps have been taken to house wives, sweethearts and families of service men. Police merchants and boarding houses to prevent gouging. Turn Y. M. C. A.'s, church recreation centers, into spare time "hangouts" for the service men. Economic Research Council Appointed By Governor Duff

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17—(INS)—Appointment of a 15-member State Economic Research Council was announced Wednesday by Gov. James H. Duff.

The council, he added, is also charged with reporting on "the feasibility of collecting essential data not now obtainable from state government or private industry sources and to make such recommendations as may appear necessary for promptly reflecting these ends."

The governor named Benedict Saurino, of Philadelphia, manager of the Sun Oil company's statistical research division.

Kentucky Moonshine Business Increases

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 14—Moonshining in Kentucky, the state which produce more bonded and blended whiskey than any other, definitely is on the increase, but so are crackdowns.

The investigator in charge of the alcohol tax unit here said that in the first six months of 1950, as many moonshiners were arrested as in all of 1949. One reason for the increase in moonshining and arrests, the spokesman said, is that "when people are out of easy money, our business picks up."

In The Open

August's alarm clocks are shrilling once again. The countryman hears these loud warders on every hand and knows that high noon has come and gone in yet another year and that the hour is fairly one o'clock. Even city dwellers along tree-shaded streets are roused by the kettle-drum racket of the cicada, that blunt-headed, pop-eyed blundering "locust" of August, who believes in singing at length and loudly while he works.

When the big green harvest fly sets up his doleful buzzing in the trees "the sun glares ever like an evil eye, and withers flower and leaf". Then indeed are the dawg daze upon us—days when the wayside loses its June glow and becomes tanned and freckled like one long exposed to the sun.

Appears Each Summer

Unlike his red-eyed cousin, who shows up only after seventeen years of contemplation deep in the ground, the periodic cicada appears on deck each Summer, to add his voice to the strident insect chorus which moves into the choir lofts deserted by the birds. He has a habit of suddenly sounding off when disturbed in a tangled field which throws a chill into rattlesnake-minded hikers, but he's really harmless, and one of the main characters on the August scene.

Catch him when his blundering flight brings him within reach, and he will complain loudly, vibrating the drum heads stretched across sound chambers located on each side of his body. Then toss him high in air and he will take off for the nearest tree, where his sharp beak pokes through to suck up sap like lemonade through a straw.

Chanced On Newcomer

I chanced upon a newcomer, still wrapped in his tight brown cellophane suit, on the steps by the garage the other day. He moved slowly and deliberately, but ever upward, driven by the instinct which had led him to bore out of the earth and into the sunlight. We gave him free run of a tall vining plant on the back porch, and he immediately started up the supporting trellis, until he arrived at a spot to his liking.

Here he halted and took firm grip. In a short while a line of pea-green appeared between his shoulders. His old suit was beginning to split. Then out came his head and those wide-spread eyes, followed slowly by his chunky body and two pairs of crumpled wings. These unfurled into the silver and green lace of maturity and he was ready for his carefree life of shouting in the treetops.

The countryman fortunate enough to live in an area where all the big high-flying hawks have not fallen to the thoughtless "sportsmen", knows August as the month when these broad-winged fellows float in wide circles high over their home wilderness. Thrilling indeed is the sight of one of these great birds sailing majestically against the slowly changing and swelling thunderheads which so often burden the August horizon.

Nostalgic Sadness

There is a certain nostalgic sadness in the passing August days. The hints of approaching Fall are on every hand. The lustre of the season begins to dim. Thistledown floats on the hot and humid air, sure sign that a troup of goldfinches have been busy pecking the ripe heads to pieces for the seeds. Already many of the birds have started planning their journey to the southland.

Of course when August arrives the fret and hurry of the season are over. Dog days are usually tranquil days. The wildlings in the fence row ripen and harden their growths. Nuts and seeds and bulbs finish storing up the necessary food for the future plant.

Banner Flower

If August has a banner flower it must surely be the tall and stately Joe-Pye weed. Lavendar-pink spires of this lusty fellow tower above all competitors in the low-lying meadows and moist roadsides it loves. An Indian medicine man named Joe-Pye earned fame and fortune by curing typhus fever and other horrors with decoctions made from this plant, which now carries his name into posterity.

The countryman walks the wayside trails of a drowsy August afternoon, noting here where a big shagbark has set a bumper crop of hickory nuts—there where bittersweet will provide him a colorful winter bouquet. He sees the milkweed pods preparing to embroider October's robe with shining silver floss and knows that even the sultry dog days have their place in the scheme of things.

BETTY VEON BRIDE OF WILLIS RUMMEL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Veon of Darlington was the setting for an impressive summer wedding on August 12 at 6:30 o'clock when their daughter, Betty Alice, exchanged wedding vows with Willis Albert Rummel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rummel of New Middletown, O.

Gladioli, ferns and other summer flowers, forming an arch, decorated the veranda of the home where the double ring service was solemnized by Rev. Robert H. Henry of the Presbyterian church of Darlington. The bride's cousin, Mrs. Earl Musser, played the wedding march.

With her white satin gown and finger tip veil, the bride wore her husband's gift of a rhinestone necklace and matching earrings and carried white roses.

Elmer Rummel was his brother's best man. The ushers who served were John Veon, the bride's brother, and Gilbert Green, brother-in-law of the bride.

He appeared before council recently and charged several stained glass windows were broken by stones used in slingshots.

New Type Tank Weapon Being Used In Korea

TOKYO, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Far East Air Forces announced today a new type of tank-busting rocket now is being used by the Fifth Air Force in Korea.

An announcement said the new rocket is the new anti-tank weapon which Gen. Hoyt Vandenburg, Air Force chief of staff, promised the Air Force when he visited Korea last month.

The new rocket has a six and one-half inch explosive head, mounted on the motor formerly used for the old five-inch rocket.

A spokesman said that in addition to its larger size "it has an improved design and a much greater wallop."

He added that the first rockets were rushed by air from the United States "where they were manufactured by hand" to hurry production.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 17—Jack Smart, the hefty 260-pound actor who is starring in "The Fat Man" filmization of his radio show, thinks tha whoever originated the saying, "Nobody' loves a fat man" ought to have his head examined.

The actor who has made his bulk pay off during the last 20 years explained why he does not agree with the coiner of the phrase:

"Let's start with Santa Claus.. Isn't he one of the best loved characters in the world?

Fat Men Popular

"And if people had no love for fat men, what would have happened to such screen stars as John Bunny, Walter Hires, Sidney Greenstreet, Eugene Pallette, Lou Costello and the rest of them?"

To give extra weight to his contention hat fat men are not wallflowers and shunned by the public, Smart pointed out that his radio show drew an audience of 13,000,000 listeners every week.

"That means that people don't exactly hate a fat man," he insisted.

Glamor Has Drawbacks

Over a Columbia set, the movies' new find, Judy Holliday, found that glamour has its sad drawbacks.

Judy, who plays the ex-chorus girl and ace gold digger, Billie Dawn, in "Born Yesterday," wears a come-hither dress of black bugle beads that is so form fitting that it does not permit her to take a really deep breath.

When William Holden suggested that Judy have lunch with him, the actress sorrowfully refused.

"I'm not lunching these days, Bill," she explained, "In this dress I'm only nibbling a lettuce leaf—and I'm afraid that may show!"

Blanche Thebom, the statuesque and beautiful metropolitan opera start with the 8-foot long head of hair, is the latest big name to be added to the cast of "The Great Caruso."

She will join such golden voices as Mario Lanza, who plays the title role, Dorothy Kirsten and Jarmilla Novotna.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

TABLE SILVER

"Our family is middle class and because of this, I have never attended a really formal dinner. I was rather confident of my manners until a friend and I were discussing a dinner she had attended at a rather fashionable hotel. She mentioned using a steak knife, oyster fork and a few other pieces of silver which I have never seen. Just what pieces of silver are in a complete set?"

Answer: The pieces of silver most frequently used are: Dinner or "large" fork—for the meat course. The small fork (in most families the only fork in the silver set other than the dessert or salad fork) is used for all courses, exclusive of the meat course. The oyster fork—that tiny implement for all seafood cocktails—clams, oysters, shrimp, etc., etc. Dinner knife (the steak knife to which your friend referred) has a steel blade and is used for the meat course. The small knife is used for all purposes other than cutting meat. In hotels, it is frequently used as a butter knife in place of the small butter knife ordinarily used for this purpose.

Whenever fruit is served for dessert, a fruit fork and knife should be used for paring and cutting. Spoons are: Soup, tea, (this latter is sometimes used for dessert in place of the larger "dessert" spoon), tiny, after-dinner coffee spoon (served along with demi-tasse). Sometimes hotels serve ice cream forks (a spoon-like implement with a pronged edge) but they are rarely if ever served in private homes. Silver is placed in the order of its use—knives and spoons on the right; forks on the left of the plate. Sometimes, the tiny oyster fork is placed to the extreme right of the plate, but usually it is on the extreme left.

Question: When a boy leaves town to go to another city to work, is it correct for the girl to suggest that they correspond?

Answer: The suggestion should really come from him, since it is an indication that he wishes to continue the friendship.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped self-addressed envelopes.

Seven Airmen Are Rescued

U. S. 8TH ARMY HQ., Korea, Aug. 17.—(INS)—Seven airmen in life rafts were rescued from the Yellow Sea today by a U. S. Navy destroyer.

The flyers took to the rafts after their Neptune patrol bomber ditched in the sea off Ongjin near Korea's 38th parallel border.

VIENNA — (INS) — Eighty-eight Austrian prisoners of war—including eight sentenced to life imprisonment—are to be freed by the Yugoslavian government next month. The special amnesty is interpreted as an overture to gain trade priviliges.

Draft Quotas Will Be Fixed For District

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—(INS)—State selective service director Henry M. Gross said today that local draft quotas for the Pittsburgh and Philadelphia induction stations may be announced "within a day or two."

The Harrisburg station will send 709 men into the Army September 5, Gross said, with three boards in Harrisburg supplying 41 inductees Lemoyne, 18; Carlisle, 24; Lancaster, 14 and Williamsport, 12.

Additional men will be inducted from the Harrisburg center September 11, 18, 19, 27 and 29, Gross added.

Meanwhile, local boards are progressing toward filling the state's September quota of 3503 men.

Accept 2366

Of 5632 potential draftees examined July 27-August 14, Gross said, 2366 have been accepted. The acceptances amount to approximately 42 per cent.

However, some of those accepted on the basis of pre-induction physical examinations still might be deferred for other reasons.

Gross said that local boards will turn over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation names of registrants who have failed to report. The total of men delinquent to date is 667, he said.

Gross said boards are now calling up 22 and 23-year-olds for examination, and probably will start calling men in the 21 year bracket.

EXPECT PEAK OF PEACH CROP IN LATE AUGUST

Flavor, color and versatility make the peach a popular fruit with most families. Although the 1950 national peach crop is estimated at nearly 20 million bushels less than last year, the Pennsylvania crop is expected to reach two and a quarter million bushels.

The peak of the State crop of peaches is expected the latter part of August. Do not wait too long before you get your supply of peaches for canning and freezing.

Select good quality fruit for canning. Scald peaches, then dip in cold water to peel easily. A square of cheesecloth is excellent to hold peaches during scalding and cooling. Cut peaches in halves or slice, using stainless steel knife. Pack halves, hollow side down, in jars, overlapping the pieces for a full pack. Cover peaches with boiling hot syrup (1 cup sugar to 2 cups water). Put lids in place and process 25 minutes in boiling water bath.

If you work quickly, peaches should not darken. However, if you have trouble put sliced or halved peaches into hot syrup and heat through before packing. Adding one-quarter teaspoon powdered ascorbic acid to one pint of syrup will help to prevent darkening of fruit on top of the jar.

You will want to use fresh peaches often, but if the family shows signs of tiring of sliced peaches and cream, try peach mousse. Prepare 2 cups crushed peaches; stir in ⅛ teaspoon salt and ¾ to 1 cup confestioners' sugar. Soak 1½ teaspoon gelatine in 2 teaspoons cold water; dissolve in ¼ cup boiling water. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice. Stir this into peach mixture. Whip 2 cups cream until stiff; fold into peaches. Freeze in refrigerator tray. Make six servings.

COOL DRINKS FOR WARM DAYS

Whether you serve cold drinks in your best glassware or carry them to thirsty workers in the field with a supply of paper cups, keep the flavor refreshing.

Drinks that are too sweet only make one feel thirstier and hotter. Sugar doesn't dissolve easily in cold drinks, so it is a good idea to keep a jar of syrup in the refrigerator for sweeting these drinks. Mix 1½ cups sugar and 2½ cups water, then heat until the sugar is dissolved. Pour into a clean jar, cover and store.

Fruit flavored drinks are most refreshing, but milk drinks are popular, too. If you are counting calories, use skim milk and add fruit juice for flavor. Beat the juice and milk mixture with a rotary beater, pour over chipped ice, and serve at once. Or you might float ice cream or sherbet in the glass. Fresh mint sprigs or thin slices of lime or lemon are cool looking and tasty garnishes.

For flavoring cold drinks, you can freeze tea, coffee, ginger ale, or fruit juices in the ice cube tray. Coffee cubes are good in plain milk or make a rich mocha flavored drink when added to a glass of creamy chocolate milk. Tea cubes are excellent in lemonade; ginger ale cubes add a touch of glamour to any fruit drink.

It is advisable to use fresh, canned, or bottled fruit juices because they furnish vitamins and minerals not present in drinks made with artificial fruit flavors. Homemade grape, raspberry, or blackberry juice makes a delicious base. Add lemon juice and ginger ale to one of these bases, pour over chipped ice, garnish with fresh mint or lemon slices and you have a refreshing drink.

Air Farmers At Farm Show

Pennsylvania Flying Farmers To Attend

As one of its features, second annual Butler Farm Show has scheduled a Flying Farmer program at 2:00 on the afternoon of August 24, Thursday. Approximately 25 participants will come from all over the state, mostly members of the Pennsylvania Flying Farmers.

Army Worms Repelled

Just this spring, in Butler county, the importance of the airplane as a farm implement, came to the fore. A hungry horde of army worms threatened to damage numerous pastures and crops, but were effectively destroyed by air spraying.

At the air show, the flying farmers will demonstrate air spraying and dusting operations, and the practicality of the airplane method of spraying. At a speed of 60 m.p.h. a plane can spray 10 to 15 acres in as many minutes. As a result of more effective distribution, one gallon of concentrated spray can do the work of 20 gallons sprayed by ordinary methods.

Latest Models Used

The Pennsylvania Flying Farmers will also demonstrate how well adapted airplanes are to the farm for transportation of cargo, as an ambulance in case of emergency, and other farm uses.

The three-day show begins on August 23rd, with afternoon and evening events, and will feature entertainment, contests, and exhibits of interest to all farmers.

There will be free admission and free parking all three days, August 23 to August 25, at the show grounds, three miles west of Butler on Route 68.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A Newark motorists, reports an automotive magazine, headed for a vacation in the White mountains, and tarried for lunch in Boston. After a long search for a parking space he found an opening that barely sufficed between two imposing limousines, and after a great deal of jockeying, succeeded in wedging his car therein. When he alighted, however, he found that the rear right wheel was a good two feet up on the sidewalk. Too overheated and hungry to rectify the situation, he shrugged his shoulders and let the car stay that way, hoping the Boston constabulary would note the out-of-state license plate, and overlook his sin.

His hope was not in vain. When he returned from lunch, this neatly printed note was tucked beneath his windshield wiper: "Dear New Jerseyite: In Boston one does not park upon the sidewalk. Sincerely yours, Sergeant Murphy."

A private secretary confied to Groucho Marx that her job covered a lot of territory. "What the young lady is trying to tell you," Groucho explained to the radio audience, "is that he boss chases her all around the office."

Trees From Department Of Forest Will Soon Be Ready For Fall Use

Millions of forest tree seedlings, shrubs, and vines from the Department of Forests and Waters' nurseries will soon be available for distribution to private land owners for 1950 fall planting, according to department officials.

Bureau of Forests officials advise those interested in purchasing forest trees and shrubs to write to the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, Harrisburg, or to the nearest district forester requesting applications.

For tree seedlings, the minimum order acceptable is 1,000 in lots of 500 of each species. Shrub and vine minimum orders are acceptable for 500 in lots of 100 of each species. The price for the tree seedlings, shrub and vine stock is $6.00 per thousand f.o.b. the nursery.

All trees distributed must be planted for watershed protection, conservation purposes, and wood products only. They can not be used for ornamentals, shade trees, wind breaks, hedges, table and potted trees, or for redistribution or resale, department officials said.

At present, the most important oil region in the Middle East lies in a great geologic trough extending down through Iran, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and the sheikdoms of Kuwait, Bahrein and Qatar.

Penn State College Guidance Center Ends Services This Month

Pennsylvania State College guidance center, located in the Lawrence Savings and Trust building, will discontinue its services with the end of the month.

In its nearly four and one-half years of operation the Guidance Center has served 4,181 veterans and non-veterans. Approximately one third of this number requested counseling because they had been disabled in the service of their country and desired to take advantage of the vocational rehabilitation training available to them through the Veterans Administration. Others were non-disabled veterans who wished guidance in the selection of their educational or occupational training to be taken under the "G.I. Bill".

Non-Veterans

Non-veterans counseled were those having some disability who had applied to the Bureau of Rehabilitations of the Pennsylvania Board for Vocational Education.

The third group were civilians desiring education or occupational guidance.

In addition to its counseling services, the Guidance Center also functioned as the community service center or field office for Pennsylvania State College.

The staff of the Guidance Center has consisted of Mrs. Marian Shaffer, receptionist and secretary; Stephen Treat, psychometrist; J. T. Doyle, appraiser, and G. E. MacMillan, chief appraiser.

First Jet-Propelled Ship Sixty Years Old

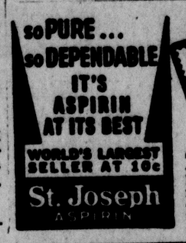

LONDON, Aug. 17—(INS)—The 62-year-old Lucy Ashton has become the world's first jet-propelled ship.

Fitted with four Rolls-Royce jet engines—the type used in meteor fighters—the former paddle steamer has carried out extensive experiments in hull resistance in choppy waters of the Firth of Clyde.

Scientific experts aboard had to wear cushioned earphones as protection against the deafening roar of the engines.

Capt. John A. MacPherson, the pilot, said after the first trial that the vessel could be handled like a normal ship and ran perfectly.

Visiting cards were in use in China in the year 618.

JOHN PREACHED REPENTANCE

HE REBUKED ALL SINNERS, INCLUDING HEROD

Scripture—Luke 3.1-22; 7:18-28; Matthew 14:1-12

By NEWTON CAMPBELL

From the Old Testament, we now turn to the New, and study about a man who was also a prophet, and a great one. He prophesied repentance and the coming of Christ.

John the Baptist, you remember, was the son of a priest by the name of Zacharias and his wife, Elizabeth, who was a cousin of Mary, mother of Jesus. As a child, he "waxed strong in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his shewing unto Israel," after the voice of God came to him.

This was in the 15th year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judaea, and Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother, Philip, tetrarch of Ituraea and Trachonitis. While Herod's brother, Philip, was absent in Rome, Herod persuaded his wife, Herodius, to desert her husband and live with him. This was not his only sin. He had many.

John came out of his wilderness into the country all about Jordan, and he preached repentance and baptism for remission of sins. People flocked to hear him—just as they would in our day, if a dynamic and unusual looking man began making speeches that appealed to them. As in our day, some undoubtedly ridiculed him, but most took him seriously, and begged him to tell them what they should do.

John was by no means gentle with them. Even as they came to be baptized he called them "a generation of vipers," and asked them who had warned them of the wrath to come.

"He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise," he told the common people.

To the tax collectors he said, "Exact no more than that which is appointed you," knowing full well that they often squeezed more from the people than they should, pocketing the money that they need not pay to the authorities.

The soldiers were told, "Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely; and be content with your wages."

Was this the Christ? the people asked each other. John answered them: "I indeed baptize you with water; but One mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose. He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire."

John's prophesying was short, however. He had heard of Herod's theft of his brother's wife, and he rebuked him severely. Herod seems to have admired John, but he was a weak man, much under the influence of Herodius, the wife he had stolen, so he put John in prison.

Before he was imprisoned, however, John had the tremendous privilege of baptizing Jesus Christ. And when He was baptized and praying, "the heaven was opened, and the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon Him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art My beloved Son; in Thee I am well pleased."

Now as he pined in a dark, damp, close prison, John pondered upon the things his friends told him about Jesus, and he sent two men to find out for him the truth about Him. They found Jesus curing many of infirmities and plagues, and evil spirits; and to some who were blind. He restored sight. John's disciples returned to him and told him what they had seen and heard, and John no longer doubted that Jesus was in truth the Christ.

After they had gone, Jesus told the people that John was indeed a prophet—"For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist."

Herodius, however, had her revenge on John for his interference with her union with Herod. When her daughter, Salome, pleased Herod with her dancing, so that he promised her anything for which she asked, her mother told her to ask for John's head. Herod was grieved, but he felt he must keep his promise, so he ordered John beheaded.

"And the disciples came, and took up the body, and buried it, and went and told Jesus."

What a sad scene that must have been. The world was poorer for the loss of such a man as John the Baptist.

Army And Navy Union Head Wants Japs Put Into Foreign Legion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(INS)—Head of the oldest veterans' organization in the United States demanded Wednesday that the Japanese be recruited into a foreign legion to defend Western interests in the Far East.

The proposal was put forth in a formal statement by Col. Joseph C. Stehlin of Miami Beach, Fla., National Commander of the Army and Navy Union. The organization is holding its 62nd encampment here.

Stehlin urged that war with Russia is inevitable and, aside from recruiting the Japanese, whom he described as fanatical soldiers, he would create a fifth column of White Russians to invade the country for sabotage.

Declaring that the United Nations would fail as did the League of Nations, Stehlin asserted:

"The Russian probing operations, such as Korea, are being carried on at the farthest point from America in order to extend us to the very limit of our national resources.

"These operations will be carried on indefinitely until the Kremlin is satisfied that the propitious time for the main attack—war against America—is at hand."

Stehlin also demanded that all dependents of U. S. forces in Germany be brought home because that could be the next point on Russian attack.

VIDEO SET SHOT

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Two robbers picked up a television set in Donald De Frain's store. They toted it out the door, put it on the running board of their car and drove away. De Frain snatched up a gun, ran out and fired a series of shots. He didn't hit the robbers but the last two bullets plunked into the TV set.

Wiggle-proof Diapers

As long as the new arrival lies quietly on his back, the business of putting on diapers is a reasonable simple thing. But along about nine or ten months, it's entirely different matter. As likely as not, he will bump and wiggle, crawl and roll in such ways as to make diaper changing a major task, and naturally enough, this often leads to irritation on the part of both mother and baby.

Here's a simple trick discovered by one ingenious mother that turns the job from an unpleasant contest into a quick-as-a-wink procedure that is sure to be appreciated by busy mothers and active babies.

The diaper is pinned inside a pair of training pants and the whole outfit slipped onto the infant before he knows what is happening.

Of course, you can go on with the struggle if you enjoy it, but it seems more sensible to avoid unnecessary tears wherever possible and it's a good time-saver.

CHEVROLET TRUCKS deliver more horsepower at the clutch

The world's most popular engine
More truckers use Chevrolet than any other make! And one important reason is Valve-in-Head engine design. For 38 years Chevrolet has been the largest producer of world famous Valve-in-Head engines.

Blue-Flame combustion
Chevrolet's Valve-in-Head design makes possible the smooth, even burning of the fuel—blue-flame combustion. Combustion chambers are scientifically shaped to wring more power from every drop of gasoline.

Lower cost per mile!
Chevrolet's Valve-in-Head Loadmaster engine with greater horsepower at the clutch offers important advantages to truckers. It means greater efficiency—it means bigger pay loads at lower cost per mile!

Net horsepower . . . the power you use, the power delivered at the clutch . . . is the true measuring stick of a truck's ability to haul payloads. And for net horsepower, Chevrolet heavy-duty trucks with Loadmaster engine have no equal among the five most popular standard equipped makes in their weight class—13,000 to 16,000 lbs. G.V.W. Chevrolet heavy-duty trucks lead them all! Compare the facts! Check the serial plates of all other popular makes for proof. And remember—it's the power at the clutch that counts! Come in and let us tell you the full story of Chevrolet's truck leadership.

State Potato Growers Will Be Asked About Marketing Agreement

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17—(INS)—The Federal Production and Marketing Administration for Pennsylvania will hold a referendum among 5300 commercial potato growers August 21-25 to determine whether they wish a marketing agreement assuring price supports.

"Under the terms of the referendum," said the P. M. A. P., "growers will indicate their willingness to carefully grade potatoes to assure the consumer a uniform and high quality pack and remove low grade potatoes and culls from the market by disposing of them in non-commercial channels."

If the commercial growers vote in the affirmative, a committee will be named to administer rules of the program. Non-commercial growers may vote on the proposal, too, on ballots obtained from local P. M. A. P. offices.

If the growers accept the federal proposal and elminate low grade potatoes from the market the U. S. Department of Agriculture will support the price of potatoes at 60 per cent of parity as authorized by Congress.

The P. M. A. P. pointed out that among Long Island, N. Y., growers the price of potatoes dipped to 75 cents a bushel after they failed to sanction price supports.

Potato And Tomato Blights Hit State

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17—(INS)—Nearly all of Pennsylvania's farming areas have fallen victim to late blight of potatoes, the State Agriculture Department reported today.

The department quoted federal-state weather and crop summaries as placing most damage in northern localities where damp and humid weather has encouraged spread of the disease.

The department previously had reported a serious outbreak of late blight in tomato fields throughout the commonwealth and recommended continued spraying to prevent its spread.

President In Conference On Control Plans

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—President Truman prepared a government blueprint today for action when Congress approves emergency control powers to rearm the nation and fight the conflict in Korea.

The chief executive prompted heads of all government agencies on the actions that will be taken to implement his emergency authorities.

The president conferred at length with the agency chiefs. He outlined to them the emergency program which the government will undertake between now and next January.

Has Conferences

Mr. Truman met with the following:

Chairman Oswald Ryan of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Chairman Wayne Coy of the Federal Communications Commission, Acting Chairman Thomas C. Buchanan of the Federal Power Commission, Chairman James Mead of the Federal Trade Commission, Acting Chairman James J. Reynolds of the Securities and Exchange Commission and Acting Chairman J. Monroe Johnson of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

To Administer Program

The White House said that these agencies, together with government departments, will administer the emergency program dealing with rearming the nation, such controls as are exercised by presidential authority and the prosecution of the conflict in Korea.

Authority and the prosecution of the conflict in Korea.

The president conferred with the agency heads for an hour. They declined to comment on details of the conference after they left the White House.

It was learned, however, that the president outlined to them their functions under the new emergency program. The agencies and government departments will have at their disposal some 16 billion dollars for defense.

Lightning Cause Of Disruption Of Electric Service

Electric power was interrrupted for 19 minutes at 5:37 p. m. yesterday on the East Side due to an arrester being struck by lighting on the Maryland avenue distribution line.

Service was also interrupted south of New Castle, especially in the Darlington section.

There were three transformers burned out and 79 fuses replaced in the New Castle district, Pennsylvania Power company attaches reported today.

Warns U.S. Near Endless Battle With Chinese

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(INS)—The Senate was warned today that the United States is on the brink of "military disaster" through an involvement in an "endless battle" with 400 million Chinese Communists.

Sen. Wiley (R) Wis., presently top GOP member of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, issued the warning and announced he has asked the Truman administration for a report on its plans to avoid a "complete debacle" in Asia.

Defense Secretary Johnson appears before a closed session of the committee today to review the arms-for-friends program. Wiley may use the occasion to press personally for a report on the Asiatic situation.

Wiley said a debacle would occur if Soviet Russia were to order the Communist armies of Mao-Tse Tung to pour over the borders from Red China into the U. S. beachhead on Korea or if the Chinese Reds were to attack such areas as the Phillippines.

He warned against a Communist-instigated "crusade of the Orient against the white men represented by the United States.."

The Wisconsin Senator thus renewed an attack on administration foreign policy which Republicans launched Monday with a statement blaming the Korean war on Democratic blunders. Democrats replied the accusations were sheer politics.

Hurricane Drifts Toward Nassau

MIAMI, Aug. 17.—(INS)—A 140-mile-an-hour hurricane drifted slowly toward Nassau today and island residents of the North and Central Bahamas were warned to keep a "standby" alter for new reports of the storm's course.

A report from the Miami Weather Bureau centered the hurricane 390 miles due east of Nassau and 550 miles east of Miami at 4:30 a. M. (EST) today and said it was drifting slowly westward at eight miles an hour.

Photograph Babies Within Short Time After Birth

Editor's Note: The News photographer, Jim Leasure, who made the photograph in the hospital nursery was dressed in a sterile cap, mask and gown like that on the nurse, before entering the nursery.

A camera in the nursery—is the newest and most practical of projects undertaken at the present time by the members of the New Castle Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. Jessie Stenger, chairman of this project, is elated at the great interest that is being shown in the new "nursery camera."

The specially constructed camera has been installed to take pictures of all newborn babies at the New Castle Hospital. These pictures are taken approximately within 48 hours after birth.

Provide Record

Not only do they capture baby's first expression after birth, but the picture provides a photographic medical record of each baby in the nursery and serves as identification. Photos are also made available to mothers who want them.

The camera was developed by a former FBI man who worked on the process for seven years. It is operated by a foot switch to insure the sterile technique, and takes a picture in 1-5000th of a second. The film then moves on and the camera is ready for the next picture. Reloading of the camera is necessary only after 325 exposures.

An authorization form is presented to each mother before the photograph is taken. However, this does not present a problem as mothers are agreeable to having their babies photos taken soon after birth.

These pictures can be made available to the mothers and are sent in announcement forms to friends and relatives. The birth announcements are in clever diaper-shaped announcements and have the picture and other baby data included.

While still in the experimental stage, the project is being met with wide acclaim. No doubt the camera will be a "busy" instrument hereafter in the hospital nursery. Mrs. William Strawbridge is president of the New Hospital Auxiliary.

British Destroyer Returns Fire Of Chinese Batteries

HONG KONG, Aug. 17.—(INS)—The British destroyer Concord exchanged gunfire today with Chinese Communist batteries on three islands off Hong Kong.

Only one minor casualty was listed. The warship was not damaged.

Officials said the shore batteries opened up first and the destroyer returned the fire.

Chinese Reds May Now Invade Tibet

TAIPEI, Aug. 17.—(INS)—A spokesman for Gen. Chang Yi-Ting announced today that Nationalist intelligence headquarters has received reports indicating the Chinese Communists are preparing to invade Tibet.

(A dispatch from Hong Kong several days ago quoted Chinese sources as saying two columns of Red troops were advancing toward the Tibetan border through Sikang province.)

LARGE CROWD AT OLD TIMERS' DAY

Struthers, O., who is 92. Mrs. Velker proved the second oldest lady on the grounds.

Other real oldsters included Jack Sanford, 88; Mrs. Mary Kersey, 84; George Cartwright, 81; Mrs. Joseph Hertzman, 83; Henry Moltz, 89, of New Wilmington; W. M. Sankey, 82; I. M. Pattison, 82; Mrs. J. T. Campbell, 83; Alice Greggs, 84; J. C. Hennon, Columbiana, O., 82; Mrs. Clara Sturdevant, 84; Mrs. Minnie B. Gibson, 82; Mrs. William Pinkerton, Cuyahoga Falls, O., 84; Mrs. Eva Sherry, 85; Anna Finney, 84; Andrew Perry, 88; J. Y. Miller, 88; Mrs. R. McCann, Edenburg, 84; Mrs. William Riblet, 82; Duke W. Byers, 86; Michael Cunningham, Youngstown, O., 87; Sam McKee, 88; S. N. Carr, 83; William Fletcher, 82; Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Yoho, 82; T. C. Armstrong, 87; Robert Simpson, Aliquippa, Pa., 83; Charles McCandless, 88, and wife, 82; and scads of others, who tipped the 80 mark.

Married Longest

Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCandless, of New Castle, had the honor of being the longest married couple present. They have been wedded 60 years. Next came Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaffer, of Aliquippa, Pa., 56 years; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas West, of McCaslin, R. D. 4, 55 years; Mr. and Mrs Robert Simpson, Aliquippa, Pa., 52 years; and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Suber, 50 years.

Little Stephen Reinhard, aged three weeks, of Cottage Grove, R. D. 5, was the youngest little Old Timer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reinhard.

The judges had to flip a coin to decide who came the longest distance to attend. There were a great number from California, including Mrs. W. C. Sturgeon, Palo Alto; Mrs. R. M. Coates, Oakdale; Mr. and Mrs. I. I. Woods, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. John Trusel, Van Nuys; and August and Augusta Kunkel, the former of whom was making his first trip back in 44 years.

Rentz Is Chairman

The program got under way promptly at 2 o'clock, with Richard E. Rentz presiding as master of ceremonies. He called upon Judge John G. Lamoree who welcomed the crowd, and introduced Judge David Jenkins, of Youngstown, New Castle native, who spoke of the value to the community of these gatherings, and of the enjoyment received by those who attend.

The grand march then got under way, directed by Frank Robinson, Joe Brooks, and "Doc" McBride. This was led by Joseph Campbell and Mrs. Kate Long Rentz, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCandless.

Then followed a period of round and square dancing, with Joe Brooks calling the figures, and for those who did not care to take part in the strenuous exercise of dancing on such a warm afternoon, there was plenty of time for walking about and greeting former friends and chatting with them.

The committee which so capably arranged yesterday's gathering, was composed of: John J. Maher, John B. Trusel, D. O. Davies, Joseph Campbell, Ralph Shiner, J. Cam Liebendorfer, Richard E. Rentz, James Mayberry, and Paul F. Butz.

That they performed a creditable job was attested to by the attendance.

Space does not permit mention all who came, some from a great distance, and of the former celebrities who were in attendance, now residing elsewhere. There seemed to be more than usual of these folks this year, who contributed to the success of the day.

U.S. Marines Gain In Drive In Another Sector

anything they had experienced on Guadalcanal, Iwo Jima or Okinawa.

Savage Fighting

The savage fighting against the North Korean Fourth Division in the Changnyong-Yongsan bridgehead below Taegu was recounted in a dispatch from the blazing Naktong front, received in Tokyo at 10:36 Thursday night, (8:36 a. m. EDT).

International News Service War Correspondent John Rich said the marines, thrown into Korea's "battle of the bulge" after a swift and secret transfer from the south sector, battled through the day for every inch up the slope of Obongi ridge.

The leathernecks fought their way to the hilltop against what were described as "murderous barrages" by Red mortars, as well as Communist machine gun and rifle fire. Rich said that both the marines and the Communists were on top of the valuable hill Thursday night as the battle continued to rage.

Gain Objective

On the leathernecks' north flank, U. S. 24th Army Division troops also gained their first day's objective against fierce enemy resistance. Rich said both the marines and the army units suffered "heavy" casualties in the opening day of their combined drive.

The American offensive, aimed at obliterating the bulging enemy threat to the Taegu-Pusan lifeline supply route, began about two hours before Communist troops, numbering possibly up to 40,000 unleashed their big drive on Taegu from the north.

The initial main force of the new North Korean onslaught above Taegu fell on the South Korean First Division and penetrated its defenses. Simultaneous attacks struck the adjacent U. S. First Cavalry Division to the southwest.

The invading hordes beat down on the First Cavalry's right (northeast) flank as the division's central units were engaged in still another bloody hill battle two miles northeast of Waegwan, which is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

The Fifth Cavalry Regiment, a Thursday Night 8th Army communique announced, "succeeded in fighting half way back up" strategic Hill No. 303 by late afternoon Thursday. A Communist regiment recaptured the prized height Thursday morning after having lost it Wednesday afternoon in a savage see-saw fighting.

Two Battles Rage

As the two great battles raged in the north and south of Taegu, behind the "no retreat" Naktong South Korean troops on the east coast were credited with killing 700 reds and captured 30 others. These South Korean units were pressing a counter-attack near the enemy-held port of Pohang.

Along the south coastal wing of the tumultuous front, the U. S. Army's 25th Division was consolidating new positions taken over from the marines when the latter were rapidly transferred up to the central Naktong sector.

The new Communist drive below Sunwi was described by 8th Army headquarters officials as a "distinct threat" to Taegu, South Korean provisional capital and inland cornerstone of the United Nations front.

The four participating enemy divisions were identified by the U. S. Army officials as the First, Eighth, Thirteenth and Fifteenth, all of which were in Naktong's east side in positions 18 to 20 miles northeast of Waegwan.

Craft Display At West Side Grounds

West Side playground held its own display of art work on Wednesday afternoon. The event was Handicraft Day, and awards for outstanding work were presented to Tommy Younger, Gary Thomas, and Fred Smith.

Last week's event was Sports Day, and after many vigorous contests, the prizes were awarded to Johnny Carr, Jean Hetrick, and Steve Mahalic.

The children are eagerly awaiting playday to be held at Cascade Park on Monday, August 21. Special buses will be at the fire station at 9 a.m. and everyone is to bring his lunch and bus fare.

KEEPS NO DOGS

PHILADELPHIA— (INS) —Geo. F. Foley of Philadelphia is well known to dog lovers as the head of an organization which has staged thousands of canine shows in the past two decades. But he doesn't keep a dog himself—travels too much, he explains.

Mississippi is sometimes known as the Bayou state.

Woman Stabbed By Rejected Suitor

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 17. (INS)—A jilted suitor last night fatally stabbed a 19-year-old brunette divorcee and threw her body from the second-story porch of her apartment in Minneapolis.

Police identified the victim as Sally Ann Barton, mother of a three-year-old son, and said Max Shannon, a 23-year-old stevedore, admitted the slaying.

Officers said Shannon told them he stabbed the attractive girl 19 times with a butcher knife because she refused to marry him and said she "was glad" their romance was over.

Shannon said he recently divorced his wife and had planned to marry Miss Barton.

Brindle's Bid Low On Ballots

Will Print 65,000 At $21.50 Per 1000

Three bidders entered prices for the printing of the ballots for the November 7 election in Lawrence county with the Brindle Company low at $21.50 per 1000. The company was awarded the contract Wednesday morning when the county commissioners met.

The other two bids were Universal Printing, $26.10 per 1000. Miller Pyle and Street, $25.40 per 1000.

MRS. GASTON LEAVES

After thirteen years of service at the cigar counter of the court house Mrs. Margaret Gaston has left and in the future will make her home in Pittsburgh.

On Wednesday the girls of the court house presented her with a purse and some of the green stuff that looks good in a purse. She is being replaced by Miss Mary Aiello. For the present time Bob Redmond is in charge until Miss Aiello returns from a hospital engagement.

SEEKING AUTHORITY

Over Lawrence county there are a number of cemeteries that if not abandoned have the look of it. In some cases particularly Savannah cemetery it adjoins Savannah Methodist church but was never owned by the church.

A private company sold the land and after selling everything out, apparently disbanded. Many families who have persons buried in the cemetery, have moved away and as a result the old cemetery gets little care.

About half a mile away from the Savannah cemetery is the old Normal Glen cemetery which has been abandoned for years and has a heavy growth of trees in it. Graves are covered with tangled grasses and weeds and unless you know exactly where to look for the old cemtery you can pass it, never knowing.

The county commissioners are getting a list of these old cemeteries and will investigate to find if there is any law permitting the county to aid in putting them back into shape.

TO INSTALL GAS

Authority has been given by the county commissioners to advertise bids to install a gas furnace in the basement of the court house and to repair one of the present coal furnaces. The commissioners plan to use one gas furnace and one coal furnace.

Other bids authorized to be advertised were those for building a new set of steps to the main entrance to the court house. Another one is for the installing of new wiring in the register and recorder's office to relieve the present load.

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—(INS)—The slim look in coats will bring back the bulky look in furs this Fall.

Designers have decided that long-haired furs—especially fox—will be high-fashion trimmery for winter, 1950, coats.

They will make a comeback for two reasons: first, because the return to narrow coats allows for more lavishly long fur, and second, because the current fight in Korea is a threat to the import of plush, short-haired furs from Russia.

Fox, which is still moderately priced compared to many coat-trimming furs, is being dyed in many shades to match or contrast the popular cloth colors for Autumn.

School Board Delays Action On Vacancies

Three Key Positions In Schools To Be Filled Next Tuesday

No action was taken by the New Castle School Board Wednesday night to fill three key positions in the system which have been vacated within the past month.

The posts are an elementary school principal, made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Joseph A. Hartman, director of instrumental music in the senior high school formerly held by Joseph Replogle, and manager of the school cafeterias, formerly held by Mrs. Rachel Pollock Taylor.

Special Meeting

The board was loaded with work of other kinds Wednesday night and at eleven thirty when the schedule was worked off it was decided to hold a special meeting Tuesday night, August 22, at which time the posts will be filled.

One shift in principalships came as the result of the vacancy in McGill and Highland schools where Dr. Hartman served. S. Glenn McCracken, now principal of Thaddeus Stevens and West Side asked to be transferred to the second ward schools and this was done. Whoever is named the new principal will be named for Thaddeus Stevens and West Side.

There was a long list of applicants both for the principalship and the music directorship. These are to be studied by the board members.

Life Begins At 69

A REPRESENTATIVE from Dallas, Tex., "Cyclone" Davis, 69, makes a picturesque figure in Washington as he checks his program to see what is next on the agenda at the First National Conference on Problems of the Country's Aged Citizens. Conference's report will go to the Federal Security Agency which is sponsoring meeting. (International)

Croton Playground Has Tureen Dinner

Early in the week children at the Croton playground were busy preparing for a tureen dinner to be held at the grounds. They scrubbed and painted the shelter house white for the occasion. Everyone was willing to help and pitched in to make things in top-notch condition.

A delicious tureen dinner for parents, children and playground teachers was enjoyed Wednesday at noon. Places were laid for sixty persons, with the parents aiding at the tables. The invocation was given by William Moore, playground instructor.

The "let's eat" signal was given, and soon several belts had to be loosened. Pop had been donated by a local bottling company. Mrs. Ida Fenati was general chairman in charge of the event, with her aides being, Mrs. Alice Biordi, Mrs. Mary Cook, Mrs. Clara Prioletti, Mrs. Viola Eckley, and Mrs. Rose Cimini.

Merchants of the Croton district donated prizes for the contests which included races, bubble gum blowing, balloon blowing, and a peanut hunt. The winners were announced by Mrs. Alice Biordi, chairman of the game committee. Bobby Biordi and Johnny Fenati won in the 6 and 7-year-old race; Betty Cimini and Charles Nelson in the 7 to 12-year-old race.

Successful in winning the bubble gum contest were Betty Cimini and Valjean Fenati, while the balloon blowing event was won by Ronnie Cook and Florence Eckley. Billy Eckley won the prize in the peanut hunt.

Handicraft has been of special interest to the children during the summer, with exceptional talent displayed in figurine painting.

Member Of School Board Questions School Books Audit

City Controller Charles A. Kennedy's competency to audit books was questioned Wednesday night by a member of the New Castle school board.

It came when Mr. Kennedy's report of the audit of the school cafeteria books was presented. In the report he certified that all accounts were proper to the best of his knowledge.

Upon motion to approve, Director Alec Samuels said "he isn't fit to audit any books. He made a mess out of the books of the recreation department and I believe is not competent to audit books."

The question was called and the audit was approved with Samuels and Mrs. Elizabeth Kleckner voting "No."

The Louisiana Purchase almost doubled the size of the United States.

Wins Stay

TO BECOME a "good American citizen" is the ambition of Werner H. Fahrenhold, 16-year-old German refugee from the Reds. His ambition drove him to smuggle himself four times into this country. Now he is on a 30-day stay of deportation after a rally by citizens of Greater Boston and Newton, Mass., where a family cares for him. (International)

Probe Mystery In Two Deaths

Fire Swept Ruins Of Cottage Reveal Unusual Mystery

PENNSGROVE, N.J., Aug. 17—(INS)—Discovery of a charred lower half of a human body and a bloodstained rowboat bobbing in a creek today presented South Jersey authorities with a first class mystery.

The body was found yesterday by police probing the wreckage of a fire-swept summer cottage on Salem Creek near Pennsgrove.

Two men are believed to have spent Tuesday night in the cottage. The rowboat containing a discharged shotgun was anchored in the creek.

Authorities theorized that one man perished in the flames while the other committed suicide, his body tumbling from the tiny craft into the creek.

Two Missing

The missing men were identified by police as Raymond Livesay, 55, Pennsgrove building contractor, and Michael Derrow, 38, a Virginian employed by Livesey.

Salem County Coroner John Ashcraft said that discovery of a bunch of keys belonging to Derrow beside the body indicated it was that of the employe.

Police said that Livesey frequently invited employes to the cottage for relaxation.

The gutted one-room structure was discovered yesterday by Joseph Hand, another employe, who journeyed there to ask Livesey for keys to a storage bin.

Livesey, married, lived in Golfview, near Pennsgrove. Derrow's wife lives in Virginia.

Elkins Brothers Fights Swanson At Flaherty Field Tonight

Phillies Dream Of Pennant; Indians-Tigers In Close Race

By HOWARD SIGMAND
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—The fuzzy-cheeked Philadelphia Phillies hustled toward a world series engagement today like youngsters who hoped they wouldn't be late for their first date.

They were out to make it certain that there was nothing "blind" about who was going to keep the annual October appointment for the National League. Their seven game lead was quite emphatic.

All this went on while the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers made apologies on and off the field for not showing up next fall as anticipated.

Robin Roberts gave the shaky Brooks more to contemplate last night. The Michigan State bonus beauty recorded his sixth straight win and sixteenth of the season as he hurled the Phillies to a three-hit, 5 to 1 win over the Boston Braves, current occupants of second place. Brooklyn receiving a 16 to 7 shellacking from the New York Giants.

The Pittsburgh Pirates downed the stumbling St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 3 on three homers. Ralph Kiner hit his 34th with one on in the third and Johnny Hopp and Tom Saffell each got one in the fifth with the bases empty.

Chicago nosed out Cincinnati, 4 to 3, in twelve innings.

That man Dizzy Trout showed up again for the Detroit Tigers. The 35-year-old veteran pitched and batted the Bengals to a 6 to 2 win over the Chicago White Sox.

Detroit's triumph allowed them to maintain a three game lead in the American League.

Cleveland Wins Two

The Cleveland Indians got some tremendous pitching in a 2 to 0, 2 to 1 twilight-night sweep over the St. Louis Browns. Jesse Flores hurled a four-hit shutout and Mike Garcia gave up only five hits in the night contest.

Al Rosen's 32nd homer tied the night game in the sixth and manager Lou Boudreau's pinch single in the ninth won it.

The double win raised the Tribe two percentage points to the good in second place over the New York Yankees, who downed the Washington Senators, 9 to 4.

Boston's Red Sox made it 18 straight over Philadelphia at Fenway Park by taking a twi-night bill, 11 to 3 and 12 to 7.

Heavyweights In Grand Condition

Keene, Bradley And Lakatos On Docket

Providing Old Man Rain remains in the offing, there'll be an eight-round slugfest between Elkins Brothers of New Castle and Johnny Swanson of Buffalo at Flaherty field tonight. It will be the feature bout of a Drama in Punch, which will contain five bouts, the first of which will start at 8:30 p.m.

The heavyweights, both ponderous of punch, according to reports, will weigh around 190 pounds each. It is possible there'll be few Fancy Dan moves, but instead, heavy socking and a display of assimilative qualities.

Brothers, a localite, has had more than ordinary success. During his amateur days he was defeated only once. That was when Ike Bell, elongated Youngstown boxer, outsmarted Brothers and jabbed his way to a decision.

Since then Brothers migrated to the nation's capital. He engaged in 27 pro fights, losing only a few. During a recent tour of Germany, he laid four German heavyweights on the canvas.

Swanson turned in a creditable feat when he knocked out the doughty Jackie Lyons, who, by the way, turned a similar feat on Billy Pozza. He also served as sparring mate to Freddie Beshore, whom Ezzard Charles t-koed Tuesday night.

The Buffalonian hopes to get by Brothers tonight and have a fight with Harry Kid Matthews, and also possibly a "go" with Joey Maxim, the Fancy Dan, now king of the light-heavies. The latter would be a non-titular scrap.

Lakatos On Docket

Julius Keene, Washington, D.C., who has grown big, and is now a 175-pounder, is reported as having improved considerably since his last appearance here. He will box Joe Netro, Warren, O., in a six round semi-final.

Elmer Lakatos, Youngstown, O., who's fighting has won Pittsburgh fans' fancy, takes on Jimmy Canasta of Cumberland, Md. They're docketed for a six round whirl. Lakatos has won his last four fights with a t-kayo.

Bill Bradley, who defeated Willie Thurman in Grand Rapids and Ted Olla in Milwaukee, since being stopped in Ellwood City, hopes to hammer out a decision over Al Hard of Cleveland, in a four rounder at 165.

The opening four rounder between Tommy Salem of Cleveland and Bucky Gardner of Akron, at 126, should be a battle that will arouse the animal lust in fans; that is, if they fight here as viciously as they did in Steubenville.

The Jefferson A.C. is promoting the five-bout show which will begin at 8:30 p.m. and if it is raining at that time, the fight will probably be held over until Friday night.

Clowns Defeat Senators, 8 To 2

Game Halted By Fog In Seventh

The New Castle Senators, idled in the league by the dropping of Vandergrift, met the famous Indianapolis Clowns last night at Flaherty field before close to 1,400 fans and dropped an 8-2 decision in a game halted by fog in the top of the seventh.

The idle Senators lost ground to Oil City and are now a full game out of first place, the Oilers trimming Youngstown, 10-5, at Oil City, but in other league action the Senators gained a half game as Niagara Falls laced Butler, 17-7, and Johnstown edged the Erie Sailors, 6-5.

Cohen Hurls Five-Hitter

Jim Cohen, a former New Castle boy, was on the hill for the Clowns and hurled a fine five-hitter for the six innings. Johnny Lesko, the young rookie, gave up eight runs and seven hits over the first four innings, and Stan Zedalis was sent in, holding the Clowns runless and allowing four hits in two innings.

It became so foggy in the top of the seventh that one could not see the outfielders, and the umpires called it.

King Tut and diminutive Bepop as usual kept the crowd amused with their funny antics.

Th August 22 game with Erie playing here is being sponsored by the Junior Baseball league of New Castle.

High School Gridders Await Opening Of Drills

By AL SPIVAK
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—Tomorrow is the day thousands of high school football players in Pennsylvania have been awaiting all summer.

It is the first day of pre-season football practice for schools belonging to the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association and will signal the start of the three weeks of warmup for the 1950 season by teams representing approximately half of the PIAA's 1064 member schools.

Three-Weeks Practice

Assistant Director Lewis Kost said a rundown of top contenders throughout the state is impossible at this early date.

First scheduled games will take place at night September 8 and the following day, Kost said.

Executive Director Edmund Wicht explained that under rigid PIAA regulations pre-season training before August 18 is forbidden.

"The pre-season conditioning drills must continue for at least three full weeks before the first games may be held," he emphasized.

A. and H. jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on a walk and three hits, and added another in the second on a walk, fielder's choice and two singles.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

THERE'LL BE FIVE ACTS to the Drama of Punch which will be staged by the Jefferson Athletic Club at Flaherty field tonight. However, not one of the acts, or bouts, will contain any of the burlesque or hippodrome tactics displayed by pro wrestlers in every exhibition. When a fighter grimaces, it proves he had been hit hard, and if he is struck on a vulnerable nerve, he goes down, and is incapable of groaning. . . . Wally Bowers, local outdoorsman, has returned from Canada. He says that some Canadians have no regard for fishing laws. He reports that at Buckhorn some of them fished without licenses and took more than the limit allows, transported them home and put them in "freezes" for winter consumption. . . . Jimmie Miller will fish at Sturgeon River this year. . . . Bob Bechtol of the Field Artillery, off whom Bob hit a home run, says that Snow is one of the best pitchers in the City Baseball league. . . . Come-back of the Franks has amazed fans and players on opposite teams. . . . Harry Amerson, the artist, says one of the greatest days in his young life was when he saw John L. Sullivan exhibit in a Beaver Falls theater. He also saw Jake Kilrain. Harry recently underwent an operation but is "pulling out" nowadays and is back in circulation. . . . Dick Davis, steward, is vacationing near Columbus, O. . . . George Chip, former middleweight champion, now on vacation, intends to eye Brothers and Swanson in glove combat tonight. It will be the first fight Chip has witnessed in years. . . . To err is human, hence Here and There admits he miscued when he reported Pete Terranova made a hole-in-one on the eighteenth hole at Castle Hills. Pete made a hole-in-one with two shots on Number 11. His first shot went into the rough and his second into the hole. George Patterson and Roger Jones called Here and There's attention to the error.

BEARDLESS BATSMEN from the City of Brotherly Love are the sentimental baseball favorites of the country, according to a picture-story in an issue of Look. Fans everywhere are rooting for the Phillies to win the National league pennant—and the Whiz Kids are providing them with plenty to cheer about. This phenomenon proves that lots of money and enterprise and a little luck can transform the most outlandish baseball operation into an efficient machine. The "Futile Phils" once provided a refuge for spavined gag writers. From 1918 through 1945, they finished last 16 times, seventh seven times, sixth three times, fifth once. They made the first division once: fourth place in 1932. Naturally they played to throngs of empty seats. To reduce operating deficits, they rapidly sold any professional players that had been provided by extraordinary accident. In 1943, millionaire sportsman Bob Carpenter Jr. bought the team for $200,000. In the next six years, he poured $3,000,000 into farm clubs, scouting, major-league deals, bonus players. Two summers ago, he appointed 39-year-old Eddie Sawyer as manager. Under Sawyer, the Phils are really hustling and winning, and Carpenter's investment is paying off. Look says, "the Phillie bonus babies find Manager Sawyer shrewd, patient, firm." Sawyer himself never played big-league ball but managed successfully in the minors. An honor student and science teacher at his alma mater, Ithaca College, he brings erudition and intelligence to psychologizing the Phils.

Conservation Need Explained

Nick Casillo Speaks To Kiwanis Wednesday

Addressing the New Castle Kiwanis club at its meeting Wednesday noon, Nick Casillo, member of the senior high school faculty and authority on wild life, spoke of the great need for conservation of the state's woodland resources.

Two centuries ago, when such pioneers as Daniel Boone, and others roamed the forests, they found a real wildnerness he stated Then came the timber companies who ruthlessly slashed away the forests. It was thought that the woods of Pennsylvania had an inexhaustible supply of timber, but it took 13 years for these great timber companies to denude the forests. The same experience was noted in other states. Today, the only vestige of our former great forest lands is to be found at Heart's Content, and Cook's Forest which are now state parks.

Minnesota Cited

Only in Minnesota was a program of conservation carried out. Here Scandinavians settled and followed out the practices which the European countries found necessary to conserve their woodlands. Our last great stand is in the Pacific Northwest.

Pennsylvania, Mr. Casillo stated has more native trees than any other state in the union, and more varieties than many foreign countries. There are 128 trees native to Pennsylvania, he stated, which is a meeting place between the trees of the north and the trees of the south. England has only 29 native species, France 34, Germany 60, and Russia 90.

In the entire United States, he pointed out, there are 1,100 different species.

Had conservation practices been started a quarter of a century ago, Pennsylvania would be getting real results now. He advocated the teaching of conservation in the schools.

Our wildlife has experienced the inroads made by mankind's ruthless extermination practices. Right now, there are 60 species of wildlife in danger of extermination with 20 species having already gone, never to return.

The state of Pennsylvania maintains several nurseries, where four millions of trees are grown every year to be distributed for conservation purposes. If everyone would plant his wasteland in the state the problem would be solved, he stated.

Redskins Defeat Los Angeles, 17-14

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17.—(INS)—A record crowd of 90,135 jammed Los Angeles Coliseum last night and saw the favored Los Angeles Rams drop at 17-14 decision to the underdog Washington Redskins in an exhibition game.

The Rams could blame Bill Dudley for their downfall.

Dudley went into action on the Redskins' first offensive play in the game. Bob Waterfield fumbled and End Joe Tereshinski fell on the ball on the Ram 11-yard line. Slinging' Sammy Baugh dropped back and fired a perfect strike to Bill in the end zone. Dudley kicked the goal.

Then, after the Rams tied the score in the second quarter, 7-7, Dudley kicked a 30-yard field goal to give the Redskins a first-half edge of 10-7.

Packers Defeat Cardinals, 17-14

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 17.—(INS)—The Green Bay Packers celebrated their 1950 hometown debut last night with a 17-14 upset victory over the favored Chicago Cardinals in an exhibition game.

Tobin Rote, a newcomer to the Packers, completed six out of seven passes for Green Bay's two first-half touchdowns. The Packers added a field goal in the second quarter.

Paul Christman's passes sparked a 58-yard Chicago touchdown drive in the second period and a pass from Christman to Charley Trippi scored the Cardinals' second touchdown in the third quarter. Fullback Pat Harder kicked the extra points.

There Are Plenty Of Ways To Tell If You Are Drunk

Outcome of a case against a driver, who is intoxicated, of a motor vehicle, is dependent upon a number of details, according to Dr. W. A. Womer, superintendent of the city's health bureau, who is called upon by police to examine drivers who are suspected of being intoxicated. Dr. Womer, who is recognized as an authority on such examinations, will attend an International conference on Alcohol and its effect on auto drivers, at Stockholm, Sweden, in late August.

Dr. Womer says the police officer must be sure about the odor of alcohol on the driver's breath and that he was driving. Careful observance of the driver's physical and mental condition and his conduct is also necessary. Dr. Womer says that when the driver is presented for medical examination the physician should meet him in a friendly, smypathetic manner because he is perhaps somewhat frightened and disturbed by his arrest and may be the victim of an accident.

"He should receive a careful examination as to reflexes, station, gait and speech. There should be no preconceived opinion as to intoxication. The medical diagnosis and opinion should depend absolutely on the findings. The reaction of the eyelids is especially important the health superintendent says, then adds:

"He should be questioned as to the circumstances of his arrest, as to when he has last eaten and whether he has had a cold and taken any medicine. The use of a stethoscope is advisable for various seasons.

"These arrests usually happen at night and in the latter part of the week. The accompanying charts show that they are most frequent on Friday and Saturday nights between midnight and 3 a. m.

"If possible the driver should be scrutinized when he thinks he is not under observation.

"Careful notes should be taken at the time of the arrest and examination. They may be used for reference in court.

"A chemical test of the breath is of equal importance with the physical examination. No elaborate apparatus is necessary.

"One cc of Potassium Permanganate Solution in Sulphuric Acid Medium is put in a large test tube. The driver is asked to blow in a tube which passes through the solution.

"The amount of breath required to change the color gives an approximate estimate of the amount of alcohol in the driver's body.

"The test is perhaps of most value when the driver has not been drinking and his impaired physical condition is due to something else.

"In case of a serious accident tests are made of blood and urine also.

"When the driver appears in court, the testimony of the police and doctor should be painstakingly precise. Facts as to happenings should be stated exactly.

"Opinions should be stated as such.

"In our local court, the judge seems to have adopted a very successful procedure.

"The guilty driver is fined a fairly moderate amount, $100.00, with a jail sentence which is remitted on payment of the fine.

"The driver is cautioned that if he should appear again the penalty will be much greater and will include suspension of driver's license.

"These procedures seemingly act as a deterrent for we have few repeaters. About 99% of the cases plead guilty."

Playgrounds Planning For Talent Show

Youngsters from the various playgrounds all over the city are preparing for the production of a talent show which will be open to the public free of charge. After individual shows at each playground, judges chose the cream of the younger set showmen and they in turn will perform next Saturday at 10 o'clock as a finale to the previous competition.

Mary Sands, director of Pollock playground, will supervise the boys and girls in rehearsals to begin Friday, August 18 at the Vogue theatre, where the show will be held Saturday. All forms of dancing, group and individual musical numbers, recitations, and instrumental numbers will be featured by the young entertainers.

The talent show promises to be one of the most colorful and unique events put on by the youngsters. At least one boy or girl will contribute to the show from each of the fifteen playgrounds making it a well-rounded, well represented affair. With a wealth of different nations represented in our city, folk dances and other native fox trots have a good possibility of creeping into the program.

This is one of the many projects sponsored by our city recreation department under the leadership of Reese Flannery. Playground supervisors are anticipating excellent results in the forthcoming talent show and also the annual play day to be held next Monday. Both are roundups of what the youngsters have learned during the past two months.

GOOD PICKINGS!

PUEBLO, Colo. — Do you get mad when you see a sign, "Do not pick flowers"?

Officials at Colorado's state hospital recognize this is a fairly common reaction, so they've done something about it. Beside a large bed near the hospital greenhouse is a sign, "Please pick flowers here."

All normal eyes are about the same size, the seeming difference in size being due to the prominence of the eyeball or the size of the opening between the lids.

VFW Commander Calls For UMT

CHICAGO, Aug. 17—(INS)—Commander-in-chief Clyde A. Lewis of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Wednesday called for an end to "standby measures of the when-and-if variety" and asked the immediate enactment of universal military training legislation.

Lewis spoke in Chicago, where he is making preliminary arrangements for the VFW's 51st annual encampment opening August 27. He added:

"Currently we understand that the higherups will go along with universal military training only on a stand-by basis . . . there is entirely too much talk of stand-by measures. The shooting war in Korea is no stand-by affair."

The VFW chief accused the administration of "political fumbling with our security" and "playing when-and-if" with measures fundamental to "our struggle to stave off aggression."

Lewis also urged congressional approval of a VFW suggestion for a "reserve intensification program" to provide a trained manpower pool for U.S. armed forces.
